Ruling Latecomers Have Little to Lose

By R. J. BOWER

SALISBURY — Rhodesia today is not only a police state but a vast prison camp within whose confines are trapped, whether they like it or not, some 230,000 whites and nearly 4,000,000 Africans.

The warden of this prison camp is Ian Smith, who can only be regarded as a dangerous and desperate lunatic suffering from a messianic complex to such a degree that he is ready to sacrifice both his own life and the lives and welfare of every other Rhodesian resident to attain an impossible goal.

R. J. Bower, publisher and editor of The Daily Colonist, was in Salisbury, Rhodesia, when the unilateral declaration of independence was issued Nov. 11. A former newspaperman in Rhodesia, and familiar with many of the men who figure largely in recent events there, he gives his views of the real situation in the embattled African country.

Though his personal courage in taking this first step to destruction may be admired, his powers of reasoning must be seriously questioned. Brave men often do foolish things; some win the Victoria Cross, but others end up on the gallows.

Fighter Pilot

Ian Smith, legally elected in the last election held in the once self-governing colony of Rhodesia, is one of those men who narrowly missed out on the former but might easily qualify for the latter.

During the war, he served with distinction as a fighter pilot in the RAF. But so did hundreds of other white Rhodesians. In all, 9,000 white Rhodesians served in armed services of the British Commonwealth—no mean record when it is remembered that they were all volunteers — drawn from a total white population of fewer than 70,000 people.

The difference between Ian Smith and the rest of the veterans who survived the war is that Smith has never allowed himself to forget that he once served, and emotionally this has played a large part in his life.

He never misses the opportunity to remind people that he is an ex-fighter pilot.

He never refuses the chance to talk about his personal war experiences and he never fails to recall Rhodesia's remarkable war effort. Significantly, even his declaration of independence was made on Nov. 11—Armistice Day.

White Support

That Smith has the majority of whites in Rhodesia behind him at the moment is undeniable. But who are the majority? Of the 220,000-odd white people now resident in Rhodesia less than one-third —77,453—were born in Rhodesia. Of the remaining two-thirds, 58,000 were born in South Africa and 37,714 in Britain. Another 11,621 came from other European countries, 1,958 from Ireland and nearly 2,000 from the U.S.A.

This could well mean that Smith—himself a native-born Rhodesian—receives his majority support from whites who poured into Rhodesia after the war from South Africa, Europe and other British colonies which were granted independent rule.

It is from this group of com-

Rhodesia Belt Tightened

SALISBURY (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith announced Thursday he has set up an organization to counter economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

Business, industrial, agricultural and mining leaders have joined government officials in an attempt to limit the effect of economic measures against Rhodesia by Britain and other countries.

* * *

Isolated stoning incidents were again reported in Salisbury and in the central and southern parts of the country. Industrial unrest continued in the southern city of Bulawayo, where 350 Negroes were fired from jobs in a textile factory for striking in protest against independence.

* * *

More than 2,000 Negro railway workers walked out at Bulawayo in an unofficial strike and general railway departments were forced to close. The workers faced dismissal.

The Reserve Bank of Rhodesia announced that normal banking transactions will be resumed immediately with South Africa and Malawi. This followed a total ban on all other foreign banking transactions.

Stubborn Governor Knighted

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Wilson has condemned rebel Premier Ian Smith's move to replace the loyal British governor in Rhodesia as "an act of treason."

Wilson told the House of Commons Thursday Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs, 63, "holds office at Her Majesty's pleasure and can be removed only on her instructions."

Later, the Queen underlined her support for Gibbs by awarding him her personal order of knighthood. Gibbs was named a Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order.

Wilson said the Smith regime had committed "contemptible acts" against Gibbs, his wife, and other loyal employees on his staff.

Mrs. Hague, shaken Coochie

Journey Could Drive Coochie to Hootch

By BARRY JOHNSON

Coochie the cat, resident of Crofton, may very well spend the rest of his lives a total nervous and psychological basket case.

His owners, Mr. and Mrs. John Hague, also of Crofton, drove to Victoria Thursday in their light truck.

They were driving around Cadboro Bay after calling on friends here when Mr. Hague noticed the motor wasn't working as it should and stopped to adjust the idling speed.

When he opened the hood, there was Coochie—in a bad way.

As soon as he saw Mr. Hague, Coochie took off at high speed, down through the engine compartment and away up the road.

* * *

He had ridden in there, sitting on the inside of the right fender in front of the battery and beside the hot, roaring engine, only a foot from the fan, all the way from Crofton.

It must have been a hairy trip.

Three hours later, Coochie was still in quite a state.

He was seized by high-frequency trembles and last night showed no signs of slowing down.

* * *

He was dull and listless, and just sat cowering in the cab in the foetal position, allowing Mary Hague to do with him what she would.

He looked as though he had the nine-day, bristle-covered heebie-jeebies.

If anyone had mentioned travel to him he would have thrown up.

Toe-to-Toe Jungle Fighting

Yanks, Reds Slug It Out

PLEIKU, South Viet Nam (AP) — Helicopter-borne U.S. troops remained toe to toe in battle with tough North Vietnamese troops early today in the sixth day of bitter fighting near the Cambodian border.

The North Vietnamese, despite intense U.S. aerial poundings earlier, were still slugging it out with the Americans.

Mortar and small-arms fire slapped into the three main American positions Thursday night and early this morning.

Bright flares lit the Ia Drang Valley throughout the night. Bone-weary U.S. infantrymen, crouched in deep foxholes, fought off four attacks. The North Vietnamese attacked in platoon to company strength.

U.S. casualties were officially described as "very light" in this latest action. This assessment by a U.S. Army spokesman was in contrast to official reports of moderate to heavy casualties reported during the last five days.

There was no estimate of Vietnamese dead in this latest action.

The battle scene is 210 miles north of Saigon, in light jungle country six miles east of the Cambodian border.

At Pleiku airport, the U.S. Army was trying to identify dozens of dead Americans brought in Thursday. The North Vietnamese had removed all identification from the Americans slain in battle.

B.C. Labor Department

Automation Study Weighed

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson's department is considering formation of an industrial inquiry commission to investigate the effects of automation in British Columbia, it was learned from a reliable source Thursday.

Mr. Peterson could not be reached for confirmation.

A usually reliable source said Thursday night that at least one union leader in Vancouver had indicated that the 48-hour general strike Nov. 25 and 26 could be averted if such a commission were established.

The informant said the commission's findings would have to be of a binding nature if it were to be supported by the unions.

NO BREAKTHROUGH

The labor minister said earlier in the evening, that no breakthrough was made in mediation of the oil strike during the day and that B.C.'s chief conciliation officer, Reginald Clements, would resume talks today with management and labor.

"The meetings are continuing and will continue tomorrow . . . in mediation you go from one to the other, so how many meetings there will be tomorrow I couldn't say."

'CHARGE STANDS'

He said his charge in Vancouver Wednesday that the New Democratic Party was behind the two-day general strike "still stands," and that the walkout was "initiated with the primary purpose of embarrassing the government."

But B.C. Opposition Leader Robert Strachan retorted Thursday that Mr. Peterson "was lying and knew he was lying."

'NO INFLUENCE'

The provincial NDP leader, reached at his home near Nanaimo, said: "At no time have we of the New Democratic Party interfered in trade union affairs or attempted in any way, shape or form to influence decisions of trade union leaders."

He said "the only political party that has deliberately set out to interfere in trade union affairs is the Social Credit party, and that is the cause of the present trouble in British Columbia.

FRIEND

"And I might add, the big oil companies know that they have a friend in the government that is on their side and they are taking full advantage of it."

Mr. Strachan said the "friend" of the oil companies is "the premier, the minister of labor and the whole government of B.C."

Peterson Tunes Ear To Hot-Line Shows

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said Thursday his department has monitored all phone-in radio shows in Victoria and Greater Vancouver to gauge public reaction to a planned 48-hour general work stoppage.

He said the conclusion reached by his department was that there is general opposition to the plan.

Mr. Peterson said even some labor leaders phoning in to the shows were against the plan, and he hoped the people instigating the walkout were aware of the opposition.

"I hope calmer minds will prevail and the few people instigating it will see the folly of their ways," he said.

Penalties Possible

Unions Aware Strike Cost May Run High

VANCOUVER (CP)—Union leaders preparing for a 48-hour general work stoppage in British Columbia are doing so in the knowledge that the cost may be high.

Labor legislation in B.C. provides stiff penalties for illegal strikes or violations of collective agreements.

Two cabinet ministers have said they consider the planned work stoppage would be illegal, a general strike, and in violation of contracts between unions and management.

UNSURE OF GROUND

Labor sources say they are not sure of their legal ground, but that won't hold them back.

Pat O'Neal, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, admitted in an interview: "We haven't had time to talk to lawyers."

The federation was going ahead with plans for the work stoppage at midnight Nov. 24, even as the chief provincial conciliation officer worked on a settlement formula for the root dispute, the strike against two petroleum companies.

ON STRIKE

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (CLC) is on strike against all B.C. plants of British American Oil Co., one plant of Imperial Oil Co., and is locked out at a Pacific Petroleums Ltd. plant.

Unless a settlement is reached beforehand, the OCAW will extend the strike to all other plants and companies at midnight Nov. 24.

The federation has asked all affiliated unions to refuse to handle petroleum products for 48 hours from the start of the province-wide oil strike, or to withdraw their services for a similar period if they do not handle such products.

SEPARATE MEETINGS

So far, the conciliator has held exploratory meetings with labor spokesmen and oil company officials separately, attempting to define their positions.

The OCAW has scaled its wage demand down to a 50-cent increase on the basic wage of $2.75 an hour. But labor spokesmen say the whole union

Colonist 500 Fund

Purse Starts Filling For Needy Families

Generous citizens and Victoria businesses have already started filling the purse of the Colonist 500 Fund.

The fund is now in its ninth year of providing cash to brighten Christmas for the destitute in Greater Victoria.

When the money is all in, the fund sends a gift of cash to each of the 500 neediest families in the area.

The fund is divided into 500 equal gifts.

Last year each of the 500 received a cheque for $24.75 just a few days before Christmas, when they needed it or wanted it the most. It was theirs to spend as they would.

A few donations came in to the Colonist after the cheques were sent out last year, and $178.54 has been carried over to this year.

You can mail or bring your donation to The Colonist, 2631 Douglas.

Strangers in Death Plane

VANCOUVER (CP) — The presence of two "mystery men" who walked unannounced through a parked DC-6B aircraft just two hours before it exploded in mid-air last July 8 was raised at an inquest here Thursday.

The hearing was resumed after a four-month delay during which RCMP conducted an investigation.

* * *

The Canadian Pacific Airlines plane crashed over the Cariboo district, killing all 52 persons aboard. Officials have said an explosion in the tail section ripped the plane apart in mid-air.

After several CPA hangar employees testified the plane was in normal running order prior to its flight, upholsterer mechanic Tom Kelly told of seeing two strange men at the hangar two hours before the plane was to take off.

"I saw an RCMP officer with two strange men in the plane," he said. "They were in the galley area of the plane at the time.

"I asked the constable if I could do anything for him and he said he was just showing his friends around."

* * *

Questioned on the matter, Kelly said he knew the RCMP officer by sight but did not recognize his friends. He agreed he should have reported the matter to his superiors.

"There is a list now with the ramp officer of all people who are supposed to be aboard the plane," he added.

George Murray, QC, representing the attorney-general's department, said his department has identified the RCMP constable and can introduce him if necessary.

Several other CPA employees also reported seeing the constable and two strangers.

John Hyra of 100 Mile House, the area in which the crash occurred, testified he saw the explosion that crippled the plane.

"The front part of the plane seemed to continue to fly while the tail section seemed to hesitate and then fall away from the front part of the plane.

* * *

"The front . . . continued to fly for about 30 seconds before it went into a spin. The plane's engines seemed to sound normal before the spin but they developed a faster whine as the front part spiralled.

"Then it disappeared in the trees and there was a terrific blast as it hit the ground."

Automation Study?

"The troubles we are now having in British Columbia are a direct result of only having a part-time minister of labor, who is unable therefore to do the labor minister's job adequately and help relieve tension between labor and management," said Mr. Strachan.

"Mr. Peterson when he made his statement (about NDP backing of the general strike) was lying and he knew he was lying, because he will recollect that when the trade union meeting was taking place to make that decision I was in Victoria talking to him and his department about a problem in my constituency."

Meanwhile, E. P. O'Neal, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said of Attorney-General Bonner's remarks Wednesday that the NDP is involved in the forthcoming general strike:

"Mr. Bonner's insults and snide remarks, in my opinion, offer very little of a constructive nature to the serious situation which is developing. I had hoped for something more useful from a senior cabinet minister.

"I have no intention of obscuring the real issue in the dispute, which is automation and the jobs of the oil workers, by trading insults with the attorney-general. I hope, however, that his obvious bias in favor of the oil corporations is not a reflection of the government's attitude," Mr. O'Neal said.

"Our federation fought desperately for time to enable all concerned to resolve the dispute and we do not appreciate Mr. Bonner's tirade at this crucial time."

movement is vitally concerned with the OCAW's demands for job protection in the face of automation. Job security, not wages, they say, is the key point.

HEAVY FINES

Under the Labor Relations Act in this province, unions can be fined $125 a day for calling or authorizing a strike contrary to the provisions of the act.

Union leaders guilty of the same offence can be fined $50 a day.

Also a factor is the Trade Unions Act, known in B.C. as Bill 43 and denounced universally in the union movement.

SUPPORTING UNIONS

Unions which have declared themselves in support of the work stoppage include the 6,000-member B.C. Hydro Employees' Association, the International Woodworkers of America, the Pulp and Sulphite Workers, the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, the Civic Outside Workers Union, the Postal Employees' Association and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Overwork Blamed

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Insufficient staff on deck, overwork and bad weather were cited by crewmen Thursday as possible causes for the sinking of the new 23,500-ton Canadian laker Lawrencecliffe Hall.

An 18-year-old ordinary seaman told of what he saw moments before the Lawrencecliffe Hall collided with the British freighter Sunek near here Wednesday.

"I saw the Sunek a mile away and started to blow the horn and give signals but she wouldn't answer. Then in the fog I could see the Sunek coming straight at us. At 50 yards, she changed course, came along the starboard side and hit us amidships," Joseph Thomas, of Port Morien, N.S., said.

Road to University May Honor Gaglardi

BURNABY (CP) — Highways Minister Gaglardi, who says he has never had a road named after him, may soon have as a namesake the steep road up Burnaby Mountain to Simon Fraser University.

SFU president Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan said Thursday the name will be kept secret until the road is officially opened Dec. 2, but he heaped praise on Mr. Gaglardi for building "this magnificent road."

The three-mile stretch of white cement has already earned a student nickname: Phil's Hill.

Old Settlers

parative newcomers or other non-Rhodesian-born whites that Smith has drawn his cabinet. It is from this group that pressures to establish white supremacy rule come.

Real Losers

And it is this group, too, which will suffer the least when Rhodesia is eventually brought to her knees through sanctions or worse. These new Rhodesians can, when bad times hit the colony, always get out and go home—to South Africa, to Britain, or to their European homelands.

But what of the real Rhodesians, those who are now but a minority in a land taken over by strangers, those who were born in the colony and have no other home to call their own? Today they have no voice. What they have gained through their own and their parents' pioneering in a rough and of-times unrewarding land, Smith has already lost for them.

Today they face a bleak future. They are the ones who must stay. They are the ones who must lose everything they have worked for. They are the ones who must suffer.

Status Change

Their only hope is that Prime Minister Harold Wilson will hit the Smith regime with every economic weapon he possesses to bring the nightmare situation to a quick end. And if this happens and Rhodesia is once again relegated to the status of a mere Crown colony under the administration of the British Colonial Office, they may yet be able to salvage something from the wreckage. Enough, say, at least to rebuild their losses or make a fresh start in a new country.

But today they must wait it out and watch with despair the destruction of the country they and their fathers created out of wilderness.

It is to be hoped that when the dust settles Britain and the world will not forget them. For they, even more than the 4,000,000 Africans who will eventually inherit the country, are the real victims of Smith's lunatic action.

Individual Tolerance Key To Nicotine Poison's Effect

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Please describe how nicotine affects the body—liver, pancreas, nervous system, etc.

I have cirrhosis of the liver and have been told that I am likely to get nicotine poisoning if I don't stop smoking.—R.D.

We'll start with the nervous system, the "autonomic nervous system" over which we have no voluntary control. At first nicotine stimulates it; more nicotine can to some degree paralyze it.

This translates into such things as a rapid heart beat, feeling of faintness, jitters, spasm of blood vessels.

WIDE VARIANCE

People vary enormously in their tolerance to nicotine, and hence the point at which they suffer nicotine "poisoning." I have known more than one person, novices at smoking, to faint from the effects of a single cigarette.

Nicotine can sometimes make the capillaries clamp down so rapidly that you can see the skin lose its pinkness. (That's why tobacco is absolutely verboten for someone with Buerger's disease or other conditions which limit circulation to the extremities.)

As to the organs you mention, the liver and pancreas, I would suggest that the heart (palpitation) is more sensitive. The liver and other organs are significant in that they play a part in ridding your system of such nicotine as you take in.

MORE WORK

Cirrhosis of the liver doesn't make you, basically, any more sensitive to nicotine poisoning, but it certainly restricts your ability to withstand the nicotine. Keep on smoking, and your liver is required to do that much more work. If your circulation is impeded, your liver is under that much added handicap.

I understand why people like smoking. I smoked for a great many years until I decided, about five years ago, that I'd gain more in health than I would lose in pleasure. Don't think I don't miss the solace of tobacco, because I do, but I balanced what I was getting against what I was losing, and made my decision. You take it from there.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a recent bride. Is there any way I can be sure not to become pregnant for at least three years? I cannot ask neighbor women as we live out in the country. I want to continue to work a while longer. I am 23. —MRS. N.C.

The birth control pills are as certain a means as exists. Just about as sure results are obtained by a diaphragm, a method that has been in wide use for many years.

In either case, you don't need neighbor women; you do need your doctor. You must have a prescription for the pills, and also need the physician's advice in case (as occasionally happens) there may be some side effects, although they are rarely of any great consequence.

Snow, Wind in East

Winter Offers Preview

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Weather hijinks Thursday brought a crippling 10 - inch snowfall to Montreal and a vicious, wind - whipped rain storm to Newfoundland's west coast.

The Prairies were cold with the temperature dropping to below zero in some places. Cloudy skies, chilling rain showers and snowflurries made things generally miserable in the Maritimes.

Much of Quebec and Northern Ontario is snowed-under from storms of the last three days.

Kidnap Victim Freed

$45,000 Ransom Paid for Boy, 13

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI)—The moptop, teen-age son of a wealthy grocery wholesaler was kidnapped from in front of his home Wednesday while on his way to school, but he was released unharmed nine hous later after $45,000 ransom was paid.

Slim, 13-year-old Charles H. Hyde III, an eighth grader, admitted at a press conference in the Pierce County Sheriff's office Thursday that he was scared during the hours he was held captive. But he said he was "always sure" he would be released alive.

Authorities were not notified of the abduction until after the father, Charles Hyde II, had paid the ransom. The boy said two men kidnapped him. The father never saw the abductors who picked up the ransom money in a black valise left in the front seat of his parked car.

The boy's mother was not told of the abduction until after the ransom had been paid.

AT PARTY

She learned the news from her husband while she was attending a garden party at the home of Phillip Weyerhaeuser, whose brother, George, coincidentally, was a kidnap victim in this city 30 years ago.

Charles said he was not mistreated by his abductors but, he added, "they didn't give me anything to eat." He said he did not know the two men "but they seemed to know me."

IN HOUSE

He said he was held in an automobile most of the time. He was taken into a house for about 10 minutes while the kidnappers telephoned his father and demanded the ransom payment.

Mrs. Hyde, who also appeared at the hectic news conference, revealed that her husband had been threatened with kidnapping when he was 18 or 19 years old. Hyde, 52, is president of the West Coast Grocery Co. His father also had been president of the firm.

FEW LEADS

Sheriff Jack Berry admitted he had few leads in his effort to apprehend the kidnappers. He said the kidnap car was a compact model with a red interior but "we don't know the licence number or even if it was stolen."

Berry admitted the trail had grown cold before he was notified of the abduction. Had he been called immediately, he said, "there is a possibility that we might have been able to make an apprehension."

Mother Thankful For Son's Safety

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—As an exhausted, 13-year-old boy slept on through the morning in his bedroom Thursday, his mother expressed her thanks to God—and even to her son's kidnappers.

"They apparently were as considerate as people can be who are involved in this kind of thing," said Mrs. Charles H. Hyde II.

The Hydes' son, Charles III, was abducted by two men on his way to school Wednesday morning and was released, unharmed, Wednesday evening after his father paid $45,000 ransom.

The boy was not harmed, nor was he overly distraught, Mrs. Hyde said.

"He was just very hungry and very tired," she said. "We're letting him sleep."

Calm after her anxious vigil Wednesday, Mrs. Hyde said she had spent the day praying and "figuring."

"I just sat and thought," she said.

Asked if her son is an A student at Charles Wright Academy, Mrs. Hyde smiled and nodded.

Mrs. Hyde said her son is about ninth in a long line of Charles H. Hydes.

"But we decided that a III after his name was enough," she said. The Hydes have two older daughters.

The boy's father, contacted by phone at his office at West Coast Grocery Co., where he is president, echoed Mrs. Hyde's gratitude.

"The boy was unharmed in any way," Hyde said. "He was treated with as much consideration as could be expected, under the circumstances.

"We are naturally thankful," he said.

Hyde acknowledged that he had help in raising the $45,000 ransom.

"I didn't have that much money in the bank," he said. "As a matter of fact, I owe the bank more than that."

Staking Fever Hits

HAY RIVER, N.W.T. (CP) — Staking fever has hit this community of 2,500 on the south shore of Great Slave Lake.

Scores of men are staking mining claims in a 60-mile by 30-mile area in the wake of announcements by Pyramid Mining Co. of Vancouver that drill samplings in the area showed evidence of zinc and lead deposits.

The staking area is near the Pine Point, N.W.T., lead and zinc mine of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada Ltd.

MEN OUT STAKING

Staking has been going on near the Cominco mine since late September on the basis of exploratory activity by a number of companies but it hit a peak after the Pyramid announcements.

Rudy Steiner, 39, a man with two years' schooling who has lived here for 21 years, has more than 40 men out staking for his general contracting company, Territorial Expeditors Ltd.

6,000 PEGS

The men have driven 6,000 wooden stakes in the last two weeks marking Terrex or Trx on each one.

Steiner then sells the claims to mining companies for as much as $1,000 each.

"We don't know exactly what the claims are worth," he says. "We work on hunches. The buyers are the mining companies who have had men just to look around and pick up land.

"Each company has its own geologists and they all have their own theories about the geology of the area.

"Very few claims are sold outright. It might be a cash sale or shares in a company or both or something else."

Margaret Chats With Jackie

The widow of the late president spent 30 minutes with the princess who arrived here early Thursday with an exclamation of being "delighted to be here in this exciting and vibrant city."

The royal couple plan to remain in New York for six days as the final stop on their American tour. From here, they will fly to Bermuda.

Margaret said she has "enjoyed and greatly admired" what she has seen of the United States so far.

"We have really loved it all, and have received such kind hospitality wherever we went."

Margaret and Lord Snowdon were welcomed at La Guardia airport by city greeter Richard C. Patterson and British consul general F. M. Tomlinson.

After leaving the plane, Margaret scurred through the cold to her Rolls Royce, clutching her mink coat about her. photographers yelled "Hey, princess, stop a minute," but she only smiled and waved.

"I can't," she said. "It's awfully windy. My hair will get mussed."

Lord Snowdon, who wore a bright blue suit without a hat or coat, followed her to the car and rolled down the window when the photographers shouted "Hey, Tony, please." He kept it down for several minutes so they could get pictures.

The drive gave Princess Margaret her first view from the ground of New York's skyscrapers silhouetted against a rosy sunset sky. She and her husband made only a brief stop at the airport here at the beginning of the tour, her first to America. Lord Snowdon has been to New York before.

Disarmament No Issue For China

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) —The United States and the Soviet Union clashed sharply Thursday over a proposal to convene a world disarmament conference with the participation of Communist China.

Chief U.S. disarmament negotiator William Foster told the main political committee that the time was not ripe nor would it be ripe in the foreseeable future to sit down with the Peking regime to discuss disarmament or other political matters.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai Fedorenko urged before the 117-member committee that such a world disarmament conference be convened outside the framework of the United Nations by the middle of next year so that Communist China could attend.

Papal Sainthood Plans Stun Ecumenical Body

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The first steps toward proclaiming sainthood for popes John XXIII and Pius XII were taken Thursday by Pope Paul in a move that momentarily stunned the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church.

The pontiff's surprise announcement to a public session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council brought a moment of silence. Then, from the rows of cardinals, archbishops, bishops and patriarchs from around the world, thunderous applause rose in the giant central nave of St. Peter's Basilica.

BALANCING GESTURE

Pope Paul announced that he had ordered the start of the beatification process for both his immediate predecessors. It was seen as a gesture to balance the progressive and conservative currents within the church as Catholicism moved through the first phase of its revolutionary aggiornamento (updating).

Pope John created the council, opening the way for renewal that has derived most of its momentum from progressive prelates. Pope Pius saw the church through the trying years of the Second World War and post-war reconstruction, defending its traditions against the rising tide of communism.

Down to the Sea

ANOTHER FERRY ship slipped down the ways this week at VMD, the third of its class this year and giving the government ferry system, the premier says, a larger total tonnage than that of the RCN's Pacific Command; the largest fleet of its kind, in the whole wide world.

Nothing succeeds like success, and the creation of this B.C. ferry system is a highlight of the Bennett administration. Certainly it has been a boon to the movement of goods and people along this coastal region, boosting the economy of the province and providing an overall convenience lacking before the government ferry authority came into being.

At the launching of the Bowen Queen the attorney-general, Mr. Bonner, cited some imposing figures to illustrate the growth of the ferry service and the important part it is playing in maritime affairs. In five short years it has carried well over 14 million passengers and roughly 5½ million vehicles. And as the fleet grows these figures will continue to mount.

Mr. Bonner paid tribute to the skills and capacities of the coastal shipbuilding industry which have resulted in this very worthwhile development, and particularly to the VMD yard which has built the bulk of the B.C. ferry fleet.

When a ship is launched the ceremony is always one of mixed emotions for the men who have created her. It means that a job has been done and unless there is another keel to be laid the continuity is broken and teams of skilled workers may wonder what lies ahead for them. As the attorney-general so rightly pointed out the shipbuilding industry is one on which many depend, and in this area it is a truth not to be gainsaid. The local scene is deeply affected by the prosperity or otherwise of the yards in its midst.

Mr. Bennett says there will be more ferry ships built but when is the question. No doubt he, like the shipyards themselves, awaits with some anxiety Ottawa's decision about resumption of the federal subsidy on the building of Canadian vessels. It was the Conservative regime of Mr. Diefenbaker which introduced this subsidy, thus enabling the government ferry fleet to reach its present proportions, and the Liberal government of Mr. Pearson which withdrew it.

Apparently this feature of such economic value to the Victoria area did not loom large in the voting mood of the local electorate on November 8.

But the Bowen Queen adds to the quality and performance of its builders, and she will ply inland waters to the credit of the B.C. ferry authority. Now if the latter can manage to bring the fares down a bit its success will be even greater.

The Family of Man

WHILE Prime Minister Lester Pearson warned his audience that the United Nations can be destroyed by the impatience of its new members as easily as by the obtuseness and obstinacy of the old member-states, Canada was voting against the seating of Communist China in the world body.

Mr. Pearson was speaking in New York after having accepted the 1965 Family of Man Award.

Simultaneously, Canada was standing with the United States, among others, to reject a bid to seat Communist China in the United Nations. Britain, France and Soviet Russia were among the supporters of China's membership.

While it is by no means certain that Peking would have taken a United Nations nomination even if the necessary two-thirds majority had approved it, Canada's opposition needs some explaining.

With its enormous wheat purchases from this country, Communist China has become one of our best customers. We are willing to take their gold for our grain, but we continue to tag along with Washington in refusing to recognize the government in Peking. Somehow this seems extraordinarily unrealistic. No one in his senses can fail to acknowledge the fact that China is governed by the Communist hierarchy in Peking and not from General Chiang Kai-shek's capital in Formosa. This is a fact of life, whether the Peking ideology is acceptable to the Canadian government and Washington or not.

Indeed, it is unlikely Mr. Pearson would deny that the Chinese people, too, are a part of the Family of Man for whose championship he has just been honored.

Expeditious Way

THE SIMPLEST and most certain way of ensuring that Victoria's Elk-Beaver Lake watershed land in Saanich is kept intact as a recreation ground is surely for the latter municipality to buy it and dedicate it as a park. Or else for the newly-created Capital Region Park District to do so and incorporate it in the regional parks system that is envisioned. In neither case would the city generally be seen as justified in asking a high price. But both Saanich and the district have land purchases of much greater urgency to make: properties in imminent danger of being lost to private development.

Thus the plan suggested and tentatively accepted at a Victoria-Saanich meeting, under which Victoria would dedicate the watershed as park and Saanich would agree to spend a fixed amount on it over a specified period of years, with joint administration, may be seen as an expeditious way of protecting and developing the property for public enjoyment.

City council, however, will have to give serious thought to some of the technicalities of such an agreement and their possible future implications, even overlooking the objection of Alderman Mooney (and possibly some of the Victoria electors, whose consent for dedication would be needed) that this would in effect be giving Saanich a free park.

As watershed, for example, the land is exempt from Saanich taxation. As simply a park, owned by Victoria, it could be taxed, though this is not to suggest it would be, in the present period of amicable relations. Could it retain a dual role and thus its watershed exemption?

For that matter, can Saanich make an agreement on an annual expenditure on maintenance and development of the park that will legally bind the councils of later years?

Both councils, no doubt, should and will have a mind to what could happen as well as what is intended to happen if this proposed arrangement is adopted.

Old Guard May Die, but Never Surrenders

De Gaulle Stands Tall at Sunset

By ALAIN de LYROT from Paris

"OLD AGE is a shipwreck."

President Charles de Gaulle made this melancholy comment about Marshal Henri-Philippe Petain after the 84-year-old "Victor of Verdun" accepted France's defeat in 1940.

Gen. de Gaulle, who will be 75 on Nov. 22, is very much conscious of his age. Often, in the last few years, he has called himself with obvious sadness an "old man."

He does not like birthday celebrations. Insofar as his are concerned, they have been banned from his private and public life.

One of his closest associates once committed the faux pas of extending greetings on his birthday; de Gaulle stared at him icily and said: "I do not see why there is any cause for rejoicing because I am getting one year older."

A restless man with endless ambitions and vast plans, de Gaulle now is faced with the inevitable limitations of age at a time when he has reached the height of his power, when he is in full control of a nation to whose service he has dedicated his life.

* * *

He obviously has thought much about the "shipwreck" of time. Concern about his age was believed to have been one of the major reasons why he hesitated for several months before deciding to seek another seven-year term in France's presidential election on Dec. 5.

Some of his intimates, including his wife Yvonne, are believed to have urged him to retire.

They did not argue that he had served his country well and had earned a rest. That would have been immaterial to de Gaulle.

They argued that retirement now, at a time when his authority is practically unchallenged, would have best served his historical image, would have forever entered him in the pages of history as one of France's greatest figures.

But when de Gaulle addressed the nation on Nov. 4 he showed clearly there were no lingering thoughts of retirement; on the contrary, he was determined to continue his life-long struggle to make France a world power and to personally influence the course of history.

He was in a fighting mood, at his arrogant best when he told the French people again what he had been telling them for years: "Your choice is between myself and chaos."

He impressed his audience with his vigor, his strong voice, his sweeping gestures.

* * *

The eight-minute address left no doubt that de Gaulle, his age notwithstanding, was going to try to make sure that both his internal and external policies would not be tampered with as long as he had the strength to do anything about it.

His determination carried with it the impression that what he has achieved in seven years of almost absolute power was due only to himself—not to any other man or party.

This, opponents immediately charged, was the worst self-condemnation de Gaulle could have made. It implied that once he was gone, an inevitable development, France would slide into chaos.

"If this is his testament," an anti-Gaullist remarked, "then his life has been a failure."

It is made all the more urgent because de Gaulle is an old man and his time, realistically, is short.

What concerns Frenchmen today is that the Fifth Republic, which de Gaulle founded, is an exceptional regime led by an exceptional man. What comes afterward? Gen. de Gaulle has yet to answer the question.

Once when he was asked about the future, de Gaulle replied: "I am certainly not going to do anything which will reinstate disorder in France." This was interpreted to mean that he would not lend a helping hand to any other political force in France. In his sweeping disdain for political parties, he snubs the powerful Gaullist Union for the New Republic (UNR) party despite the fact that its support in Parliament is essential for the enforcement of his policies. He recently gave instructions which banned it from an active role in the current campaign.

* * *

He therefore stands alone, in communion only with an abstract entity: the French people.

Although his comments, as expected, raised a torrent of protest and indignation from leaders of the opposition, most observers agreed that his appeal was shrewd and effective.

It was simple, direct and short and it avoided any attempt to delve into controversial policies.

"One of the best exercises in demagoguery I have ever witnessed," an opposition politician remarked.

While his critics have said that de Gaulle's love for power prevented him, like all other strong men, from relinquishing the driver's seat, his determination to see his policies through seemed an inevitable reason for him not to resign now.

So far de Gaulle has failed to impose many of them, whether they apply to internal or external affairs.

It is true that he has reduced his political opposition to near-impotence but he has failed to root out the splinter parties which would quickly reappear on the French political scene if de Gaulle left the stage.

The alternative of chaos that he threatened the French people with is proof that he is aware of this.

* * *

This made it necessary for him to run again for president with the hope that the election returns would forever smash France's tired, traditional parties by demonstrating their failure at the polls. He obviously felt that he alone could inflict upon them a defeat of such magnitude that they would never recover.

Then in the next two or three years following the election, the chance finally would be given him to look to the future and to organize his succession.

But the uncertainty of the future is even more problematic when it comes to de Gaulle's global views and policies and France's own role in international affairs.

While de Gaulle almost certainly will be re-elected with a large majority on Dec. 5 and thus remain in control in France, he is far from having imposed his policies on foreign countries, whether they are allies or opponents.

For the last seven years, de Gaulle has engaged in tenacious attempts to reshape the post-war world. This would seem like a ludicrous endeavor in view of France's second-rate power status were it not for his amazing capacity to exploit any and all situations to his advantage.

It can be said, with realism, that Gaullist diplomacy is active in all corners of the globe.

Within the Western world, de Gaulle has managed to disrupt both the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the European Common Market. He has challanged the role of the United States in Europe and meddled in its Southeast Asia affairs. He has played up to non-aligned nations of the so-called "Third World." He has gone to South America to preach independence, presumably from the United States.

* * *

In Africa he solved the Algerian war satisfactorily, gave independence to France's huge former empire on that continent and established good relations with the new republics which later were founded.

He now is engaged in a policy of rapprochment with the Soviet Union and with all the East European Communist states, a development which could completely unhinge the present balance of power on the European continent.

After achieving what first appeared to be an historical treaty of alliance with West Germany, he suddenly turned against the Bonn government because it remained too closely allied to the United States.

He has underlined the growing importance of Communist China in world affairs, established diplomatic relations with the Peking regime and supported its membership in the United Nations.

He has boycotted the Geneva disarmament conference while proceeding actively and at great expense with the development of France's nuclear "force de frappe."

* * *

While small by comparison with those of the giant powers, the French deterrent will be equipped with H-bombs, long-range missiles and nuclear submarines within four years and obviously will have to be taken into account.

In short, de Gaulle has managed to put a finger in every pie.

As a result he has developed for himself and for France an international role which, on face value, does not correspond with reality. For this he can be considered one of the great diplomatic wizards of his time.

But for all this wizardry, it may be wondered what all this whirlwind activity amounts to, where it is leading.

The world, he feels, is no longer split between the American and the Soviet "hegemonies" which, he said, placed "the peoples within their reach" under their authority. But he adds that ideologists, whether they are of the capitalist-free enterprise or the Communist varieties, are now used by the two superpowers as means to prolong their influence and power.

* * *

While France remains an ally of the United States, it refuses any form of "vassalage." The integrated structure of NATO under a U.S. commander amounts to "subordination" of France and must be eliminated, de Gaulle believes. He argues that the European Common Market must not lead to a European political unity which would impinge on the national sovereignty of its member nations and fall prey to U.S. influence. The Common Market is now paralyzed because of a French boycott that resulted essentially from de Gaulle's opposition to any form of integration.

Because France's allies have made it clear to de Gaulle that they would not allow him to destroy organizations that have become the backbone of the Western world, the French president now is casting his eyes eastward toward the Kremlin. But this does not mean that de Gaulle will throw himself into the arms of the Russians. He has condemned the Soviet regime too many times and is too suspicious of the Communists to do so.

He has again set upon an independent course which appeals to Moscow probably only to the extent that it embarrasses the West. He is too much of a realist not to be aware of this but it does not detract him from using the Soviet lever for what it is worth.

* * *

Eventually, de Gaulle prophesies, East and West Europe—the components of a single geographical, ethnical, economic and cultural unit — should get together.

Russia, as distinguished from the Soviet Union, belongs in Europe. Sooner or later Red China will claim the Asiatic Soviet Republics and Russia will be involved in a gigantic territorial struggle with Peking, de Gaulle believes.

He has set the stage for what amounts to a political and diplomatic upheaval in France, Western Europe and possibly the rest of the continent. Whatever he feels he must accomplish must be done in a very few years' time.

If he had abandoned the field now, chances are that more harm than good would have been accomplished, although de Gaulle claims that his activity serves the cause of peace.

At the sunset of his career, de Gaulle, however, realizes that much of what he has started remains unfinished. As a result, and despite his fear of the ravages of old age, he has decided to carry on what he basically considers his historic quest for the greatness of France.

"Today, I believe I should be ready to pursue my task, knowing full well, and by experience, the effort it means, but convinced that at this time this is best for the service of France."

The Women's Christian Temperance Union was founded 91 years ago—in 1874—at Cleveland, Ohio. It was a comparatively late arrival, for temperance and abolitionist groups had been flourishing since the early days of the century. In Ireland in the 1840s, the consumption of liquor was halved within three years, largely by the efforts of Rev. Theobald Mathew of Cork. The WTCU's main interest was teaching temperance in the schools. Within a generation this was compulsory in every U.S. state and Canadian province except Quebec and Prince Edward Island.

1794—Britain and the United States signed the Jay treaty.

1947 — Lieut. Philip Mountbatten was created Duke of Edinburgh.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1915—the Serbian army retreated towards the Albanian frontier. Twelve Italians died at Udine in an Austrian air raid. Russia sustained a German counter-attack at the Dwina River.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—in action for the first time, the Royal Australian Air Force shot down five Italian aircraft in Africa. The Swiss Fascist organization was ordered dissolved by the government. Greece appealed to the United States for permission to buy war supplies.

UN Soon May Accept China's Membership

By ROBERT STEPHENS from London

AFTER an interval of two years, the question of China's admission to the United Nations has once more been debated in the General Assembly in New York.

The United States has again declared its firm opposition to Peking's taking over the Chinese seats in the Assembly and the Security Council, at present held by the Chiang Kai-shek government in Formosa.

On Wednesday last China failed to win nomination by the necessary two-thirds majority vote.

* * *

Last year there was no vote because the Assembly was paralyzed by its financial crisis. The year before, the Assembly voted against Peking's admission on two counts. First, on a question of procedure, it voted by a simple majority that Chinese representation was "an important matter" which means that it requires a two-thirds majority for decision. Then it voted against Peking's admission by 57 votes against 41 in favor, with 12 abstentions.

To reverse this decision, the Assembly must either produce a two-thirds majority in favor of Peking, or, which is easier, vote first by a simple majority that China is not "an important matter" and then find a simple majority for Peking's admission.

A year ago, it looked as though a vote in favor of China might be imminent. The balance could have been claimed by a switch in the votes of the 12 French-speaking African states who have so far either voted against or abstained. This probability had been increased when France recognized Peking at the beginning of last year. The attitude of the French African states now is likely to be determined by how strongly France presses them to change their minds, as compared with the inducements to support America and their own suspicions of China's revolutionary role in Africa.

But a number of other factors of uncertainty have been introduced during the past year. China's world position and the attitude of other countries towards her have changed. In some ways she has become a more active force in world affairs and in other ways she has become more isolated. Her dispute with the Soviet Union has, if anything, widened, though the new Soviet leaders try to conduct it in a cooler way than Mr. Khrushchev.

But even Mr. Kosygin and Mr. Brezhnev now seem to have decided that it is time to launch a counter-offensive to re-establish Moscow's leadership of the world Communist movement. They have chosen a moment when China has just suffered serious reverses in her campaign to win support in the Afro-Asian world.

She has failed to get her way over the abortive Afro-Asian conference in Algiers, where she had insisted unsuccessfully on Russia's exclusion. Her attempt to put pressure on India in support of Pakistan during the recent Indo-Pakistan war ended in fiasco, though it did earn her some gratitude in Pakistan. Perhaps most important of all was the unsuccessful coup in Indonesia, now attributed, though with slight evidence, to the pro-Peking Indonesian Communist Party.

The present wave of hostility to the Communists and Chinese in Indonesia, despite President Sukarno's attempts to restrain it, looks as if China were losing an important ally. It has probably also ended Peking's hopes —always rather slender — of building up an international organization among the developing countries as a rival to the United States.

* * *

The low ebb of Peking's present influence among the Afro-Asian countries is partly indicated by the fact that the sponsorship of the resolution at the United Nation's on China's admission was left to Albani and Cambodia.

But Peking might argue that its claim to recognition as a great power and to a veto-bearing seat in the Security Council has been enhanced by its development of nuclear weapons. As it happens, the other four permanent members of the Security Council — America, Russia, Britain and France — are also the four present members of the nuclear club. Though China will undoubtedly take several years more to develop an effective nuclear striking force, she has already put a foot in the club door with her first nuclear test.

The fact that China has to be reckoned with in any serious disarmament arrangemen: for the future is one reason why some of the Western powers, especially Britain, are now pressing harder than before for China's admission to the United Nations. The British government recognizes that China's entry would make life more difficult for everyone inside the UN, but it believes this risk has to be taken. It also feels that, once inside the UN, China may in time behave in a more reasonable way.

* * *

If a UN vote in favor of Peking looked really imminent, it would probably be linked with some attempt to negotiate a transitional understanding with Peking over that status of Formosa. But at least a start would have been made on the urgent task of bringing China out of isolation and into a more normal role in world politics.

Washington Calling

Cloud in the East

By MARQUIS CHILDS from Washington

INTELLIGENCE REPORTS on both sides of the Atlantic indicate that within 12 to 18 months another applicant will be knocking on the door for admission to the nuclear club. A sixth member with the credentials of a nuclear device duly exploded will raise the nuclear arms race to a new pitch of intensity.

India is believed to be working in strictest secrecy toward the completion of a nuclear device. In public Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri insists his government will not produce a potential weapon, even though, with India's advanced atomic development near Bombay, this is possible in a relatively short time. Two small reactors built by India, in addition to one provided by Canada, are judged capable of providing sufficient plutonium.

Yet despite the official position in New Delhi the surmise—it is still an intelligence estimate—is for the following course of events. With the perfection of a low yield device India will announce that it is to be used in an underground explosion for peaceful purposes. Thus in the high Himalayas a nuclear explosion could blast out a new access route.

The theory is that in this way India would get the best of both worlds. It would have the status symbol of a potential weapon, thereby joining the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union, Red China and France, while at the same time providing India's dedication to peace.

This same optimism is not shared in the West. India could end up with the worst of both worlds — a costly experiment causing a shock wave in neighboring Pakistan where the Indian claim to peaceful intentions would be taken as a thinly concealed threat. Added to the tide of fear and hatred coming out of the war over Kashmir, this would drive Pakistan closer to Red China, and it might precipitate what has until now been only a threat.

So far as is known no nuclear power has supplied an ally with nuclear weapons. If Red China were to give Pakistan a bomb to match India this would open the terrifying prospect of a race by dissemination. Even the announced proffer of a bomb — regardless of whether it might be delivered—would set off an alarm in every world capital.

A year ago in Bombay Dr. Bhabha told this reporter India could set off a device in 18 months. He insisted his critics were wrong in saying he wanted to rush into making bombs. But he went on to say that Red China's bomb made it plain there was no time to be lost. Bhabha estimated then that the Chinese have the capacity to make 30 to 50 bombs a year and this apparently is not beyond India's reach at a cost under $100 million.

Unquestionably the mushroom cloud on the Far Eastern horizon began a new era. However much China's bomb may be discounted, with the prediction that it will be 10 years before a delivery system can be developed, this was an achievement of Asians matching the West. That psychology helped to generate the pressures on Shastri.

If India becomes No. 6 on the club list it is not hard to imagine the new pressures on other nations that could, within a comparatively short time, construct a nuclear device. West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard has in his initial address to the Parliament in Bonn renewed the demand for parity in nuclear weapons control. He will press this demand when he meets with President Johnson Dec. 6-8.

Shastri is expected in Washington in late January. American food shipments to India are continuing at the rate of about 500,000 tons a month. But this is on a month-to-month basis and Indian public opinion is concerned that a new long term agreement has not been signed. Could it, the question is asked, be held up to compel acceptance of the American position on Kashmir or to bring about changes in Indian agriculture? Because a nuclear device would take sizeable resources in men and material it seems an irrational decision in a country in dire need. Given the tensions of today's world, reason may be outlawed.

Scientists Double Animals' Lifespan

By HARRY NELSON
From Los Angeles

Two scientists have told how they have extended the normal lifespan of animals as much as 100 per cent by reducing their diet or by controlling the temperature of their environment.

Significantly, they were able to selectively prolong certain stages of life—either the reproductive stage or the period of old age.

★ ★ ★

"We regard this as an important finding because it means that we may be able to do something biologically that will influence the period of old age," said Dr. Nathan W. Shock, chief of the gerontology branch of the U.S. National Heart Institute.

He and Dr. Charles H. Barrows, chief of the section of nutritional biochemistry were here for a conference.

Dr. Barrows, who did the animal work, said the life prolonging experiments have been done on rats, mice, water fleas and rotifers, which are tiny water animals.

By feeding rats one third less than is customary, the scientist was able to extend their lifespan 50 per cent.

The lifespan of the rotifers was lengthened 100 per cent by either cutting down on their food or by reducing the temperature of the water they live in.

Lowering the temperature had its affect by lengthening the old age stage of life, Dr. Barrows said.

He said there is no reason to believe humans would not respond in the same way to the diet control, but the problem is that the diet reduction would have to begin in childhood.

This, he feels, is because reducing the diet of adult rats has no effect on lifespan.

"It would be very difficult to get enough children whose parents would allow them to be fed only half of what all the other children are getting. They probably would be smaller and the practical problems would be great," he said.

"Maybe," Dr. Shock said, "we should be paying more attention to prevention rather than concentrating so heavily on doing patchwork after the die has been cast."

Bonn 'Leak' Fired

LST, from Bonn

A senior West German foreign office official has been dismissed from his post by Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder for revealing to former Defence Minister Franz Josef Strauss secrets of recent Anglo-German exchanges aimed at improving relations between the two countries.

Rhodesia

Wilson Hasn't Put Foot Wrong

By EDWIN ROTH, from London
(Special to the Colonist)

Surrounded by an atmosphere of historic drama, Prime Minister Harold Wilson stood in the packed House of Commons and cried angrily to the Tories sitting opposite him: "What happened in Rhodesia is of world concern, and those who deny this are burying their heads in the sand!"

This is not only the most difficult diplomatic and political crisis which any British minister has had since the end of the Second World War, but also the most dangerous.

Wilson's anger exploded when he had told the House of Commonst that the British government had requested an immediate Security Council meeting about Rhodesia. Several Tories interrupted him with loud shouts of "Why?".

"Why?" shouted Wilson angrily at them. "Because if we don't, somebody else will! It's the duty of Her Majesty's government to keep control of this situation."

Harold Wilson on way to Commons for vital debate.

Tories Shocked

Next day, when the House of Commons unhappily debated Rhodesia for the second time within 24 hours, Wilson revealed his nightmare about the Red Army in the blue berets of the United Nations' forces. This time, he shocked the Tories into silence when he said:

"The problems arising from this crisis could get quickly out of hand on an international scale. If that happened, no assertion of our imperial responsibilities could stop it.

"Honorable members may dismiss—and are perfectly entitled to dismiss—from their minds the resolutions of the Organization of African Unity or the announcements about the use of parachutists, as impractical or nonsense. But what they cannot dismiss is the danger of major powers getting a foothold on the continent of Africa.

"Have the Honorable Gentlemen who say we should go a bit slow on our own economic measures considered where this might lead us?

"If we are not able to show world opinion and those who have it in their power, whatever we might do, to go in for military action, that we ourselves mean business and are carrying out effective measures, then Honorable Gentlemen may be inviting the prospect of the Red Army in blue berets!"

For James Harold Wilson, the Rhodesian crisis means his promotion from leader of the British Labor Party and prime minister to world statesman. It has given him the chance to prove this personal development with enormous publicity in press, radio and television.

Dignity Praised

Even the Conservative party's deputy leader and former chancellor of the exchequer, Reginald Maudling has said publicly: "The prime minister has handled himself with dignity over the Rhodesia crisis. I cannot think of any major thing he has done wrongly, or has not done." By this, Maudling has infuriated many Tories.

In all the large, important, influential Conservative newspapers the political correspondents wrote with unanimity that Wilson is handling the Rhodesia crisis like a statesman. This high praise from newspapers which usually oppose him is worth many votes.

Harold Wilson is now under the crossfire from many Laborites who say he is not acting strongly enough against Ian Smith — and from Tories who want no sanctions whatsoever.

Most Tories emotionally support Smith and the white Rhodesians. Opposition Leader Edward Heath knows that any support he may give to sanctions imposed by Wilson would split the Conservative party.

At the same time, the Labor party's leftists demand that British military force should be used against Smith and the white Rhodesians. But Wilson cannot do this, because the overwhelming majority of Britain would passionately oppose it.

Opposition Leader Edward Heath attacked the banning of Rhodesian tobacco in Britain. Almost all Tories oppose those tobacco sanctions—which most Laborites regard as insufficient. Most Laborites agree with Philip Noel-Baker, a former Labor minister and Nobel Peace Prize winner, who demanded immediate oil sanctions.

Reserve Weapons

But Wilson wants no immediate oil sanctions, because he must keep some effective political, diplomatic, and economic weapons for later stages of the Rhodesia crisis. He also wants to avoid having Rhodesia cut off Britain's copper supplies from Zambia, which must be transported through Rhodesia.

His most important immediate aim is to prevent military intervention by other countries or by the United Nations. To have any hope for that, he must keep some sanctions until later, and use them to help some African politicians to save face.

One of Wilson's most powerful reserve weapons is Queen Elizabeth, who must accept his official advice. Every officer of Rhodesia's armed forces has sworn a loyalty oath to her person. This could become tremendously significant.

Appealing for national unity, Wilson dramatically ended his House of Commons speech with a sentence Winston Churchill spoke almost 30 years ago during a House of Commons debate on the Italian-Abyssinian war. Churchill said:

"We cannot undo the past, but we are bound to pass it in review in order to draw from it such lessons as may be applicable to the future, and surely the conclusion from this story is that we should not intervene unless we are in earnest and prepared to carry out intervention to all necessary lengths."

Grits Seek New Leader

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — The Prince Edward Island Liberal Association has announced a party leadership convention will be held here Dec. 11.

Milk Goes Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two more firms have announced increases to 27 cents in the price of a quart of milk. The move by Avalon Dairies and Canada Safeway, which sells milk only in its stores, followed an earlier increase to 27 cents by one dairy and increases by two others to 29 cents.

Sale Denial Reported

Crown to Conclude Today

Naval Supplies' 'Loan' Known

Two men accused of fraud and theft at the Royal Canadian Navy's expense admitted they knew of the "loaning" of naval photographic supplies to downtown studios but denied selling any, the RCMP investigating officer in the case said Thursday.

He said former head of the HMCS Naden photographic section Lieut. Eric Haywood told him he authorized loans "but not that often," while civilian dockyard employee Charles Whyte said :"I have knowledge of them (studios) borrowing items."

The testimony came from Cpl. Walter Semenoff on the 10th day of the trial in Victoria County Court, in which Lieut. Haywood and Whyte are charged with four counts of fraud and one of theft, relating to naval photographic material.

Cpl. Semenoff said he first questioned Lieut. Haywood Nov. 30 last year, and when the officer was asked if he knew of supplies from the photographic section being sold downtown, he replied, "Definitely not."

Lieut. Haywood and Whyte were also both questioned the same day about an enlarger bought from Saanich police, which is the subject of one of the fraud charges.

Whyte, said the corporal, said he and Lieut. Haywood obtained it for the use of the navy hobby club. In return, the police department was given $75 worth of photographic material in lieu of cash.

PASSED ON

Further questioned about the machine, Whyte said it had been passed on to another dockyard employee "to do something with."

It had not been sold to the man, but had been offered for sale, Whyte had added. Cpl. Semenoff said Lieut. Haywood told him he gave Whyte $75 cash in payment for the enlarger.

TAPE RECORDER

Defence counsel Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre brought out in cross-examination that a tape recorder contained in a briefcase was present on the floor of the room during the interviews, at which RCMP Constable Robert Smith and two naval officers were also present.

Constable Smith recalled in evidence that Lieut. Haywood had been asked about "blue movies" and denied any knowledge of such matters.

"What is your definition of blue movies?" inquired Mr. St. Jorre.

"In my mind, obscene," replied Constable Smith.

TWO CAMERAS

And there this line of questioning ended.

Cpl. Semenoff later testified about questioning of the two men about a 35-mm still camera and 8-mm movie camera they are charged with obtaining for their own use at the navy's expense.

Lieut. Haywood said he obtained the 35-mm camera in an exchange deal with Whyte. The latter replied he could not remember buying that camera at Victoria Photo Supply.

Whyte produced the 8-mm movie camera.

When he was charged with the five counts June 15 of this year, he said, "I am not guilty. I have only been doing as I am told," Cpl. Semenoff testified.

Parliamentary Caucus Monday

Diefenbaker Undeniably Tory Winner

Party Rallies Round Him

By RON COLLISTER
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—After 30 years of attempts to force him out of public life, John Diefenbaker can expect an hallelujah chorus when he faces his parliamentary caucus Monday.

It is the first meeting in five months, since Parliament recessed for the summer and plunged into a general election.

The Tory leader did not win the election, but it will be a victory party all the same.

REUNITED

When the prime minister called the election, there were not many members of the Tory caucus who would have bet on the party retaining all the seats it already held.

Instead, it was reunited at the top, added a few seats and reversed the popular voting trend to Tories up, Liberals down.

NEW CONFIDENCE

Mr. Diefenbaker faces the caucus with a new vote of confidence from his Quebec group, which met in Ottawa Thursday.

The group pledged loyalty to its national leader and issued the following statement:

"We reiterated our loyalty and confidence towards the party leader, John Diefenbaker, and expressed admiration and gratitude for the energy, combativity and sincerity he demonstrated in the campaign."

QUEBEC HAPPY

With the Quebec group happy about his leadership, with the rebels back in harness, Mr. Diefenbaker faces the future with no serious threat from within the party.

At the present time, he can make a free choice:

Or quietly to retire, having defeated all his adversaries.

At least, he is now in control of the situation and the next step he takes.

There's no longer talk of revolt.

The contenders for leadership on Parliament Hill, George Hees, Davie Fulton, Richard Bell, etc., need time to build up support in the parliamentary caucus.

BITTERNESS

There is still bitterness about the circumstances of Hees' departure in 1963.

And some doubt whether Fulton, who failed in B.C. provincial politics, is a national vote-getter of the stature needed to put the party back into power.

The last time that George Hees shared a caucus with Mr. Diefenbaker thirty-one months ago, it was a tearful wrangle as Mr. Diefenbaker insisted on retiring, his supporters cried "no" and Mr. Hees joined in for the sake of the party unity.

FINAL LEAP

A few days later, Mr. Hees resigned.

Recriminations will be down to a minimum now as a party that produced 97 seats in the election, a solid springboard to power, tries to keep harmony for the final leap.

SPEND FOR FUTURE

More than $20,000,000 has been spent on developing Ontario's provincial parks since 1954.

Direction Change Sure In Liberal Upheaval

By RON COLLISTER

OTTAWA — In the massive upheaval now underway in the Liberal party, two steps are certain:

● Prime Minister Pearson will resign, as soon as he can do so with dignity and not as a sacrifice for the 1965 election fiasco.

● The party will change direction, from the leftist hue of ex-finance minister Walter Gordon to the rightist tinge of the new heir-apparent, Robert Winters.

DANGER AHEAD

In the changes, the Quebec problem is sure to be magnified.

Philosophically, Jean Marchand, Gerard Pelletier and Pierre-Elliot Trudeau are New Democrats who believed they could do more for their province and country by running as Liberals.

If they succeed in pushing the party their way, there will be a widening chasm that could result in a flurry of defections.

Since the election, and Mr. Pearson's fourth failure to win a majority, the Liberals are mobilizing silently to meet the inevitable, a leadership contest.

POPULAR

Mr. Pearson is so popular that no move would ever be made to remove him. But Mr. Pearson is the kind of man who would initiate his own removal.

He has never been enamored with power as most of our leaders have been.

There seems little doubt that he would have achieved his majority if he had done all the things that a power-enamored person would have done in the past two-an-a-half years, starting with the firing of Mr. Gordon over the first budget, Health Minister Judy LaMarsh over the pension plans and Mr. Favreau, from the cabinet, over the Dorion inquiry.

MOOD OF DEFEAT

After the election, there is a mood of defeat hanging over the government.

Only major surgery on the cabinet will restore public confidence and hope of a Liberal comeback.

Victor School Costs Trimmed to Budget

Costs of the planned Victor Street school for the retarded have been trimmed to the size of the Greater Victoria School Board's budget, trustee Peter Bunn announced Thursday.

A special meeting of the school board will be held Monday to ratify awarding of a contract for about $24,000, said Mr. Bunn, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee.

The six-room structure on Victor off Haultain will house about 40 trainable retarded children. Its construction has been stalled for months because of unexpectedly high tenders.

Though the board estimated it would cost $121,000, first low bid was $159,000. A revised tender, submitted after plans were redrawn, was still $138,000.

Mr. Bunn said that with the board's $121,000, plus three per cent from the contingency fund, the modified school can be built.

Aleutian Queen Probe Completed

The preliminary inquiry into the collision of a Russian fishing trawler and a Canadian trawler has been completed.

Capt. Cyril Burrill, of Vancouver, supervisor of masters and mates carried out the preliminary inquiry.

"I submitted my report early this week to Transport Minister Pickersgill, and I have had no word whether or not there will be a formal investigation," Capt. Burrill said Thursday.

He explained that in a preliminary inquiry the facts are collected and submitted to the transport minister who decides whether or not a formal investigation is warranted.

Assessment System May Be Changed

Tax Exemption Question Deferred

The whole question of tax exemption of certain properties, such as churches and schools, which has been the concern of city council for some weeks, will probably be deferred until next year.

This was the recommendation of council finance committee Thursday, acting on a report by the city manager that it was a question which required much study and not one to be decided in haste.

"I think this is a wise decision and we should act on it," said Mayor Wilson. The committee agreed.

Under a proposed new formula worked out by the city land commissioner's office, there would be changes in the present system of assessment in the matter of exemptions.

A question at issue has been whether the living and dormitory quarters of such schools as St. Ann's and St. Margaret's should be exempt from taxation, as they now are.

If they were assessed and taxed it would mean a substantial increase in the tax bills of both institutions.

Port Alberni Credit Union

Big Opening Set

PORT ALBERNI — Invitations have been issued to the formal opening of the Credit Union building at Fourth and Angus in Port Alberni Dec. 4.

Civic and legislative dignitaries will attend, and opposition leader Robert Strachan has agreed to officiate at the ceremony.

MP-elect Tom Barnett and John Squire, MLA, both longtime supporters of the Credit Union movement, will also attend.

Louis Greissel, for many years a director of the Credit Union here, will unveil the plaque on the new building.

Credit Union members from many parts of the Island are expected to attend, since the new building will not only serve Port Alberni members but will be headquarters for new branch opened within recent months to serve Tahsis, Gold River, Tofino and Ucluelet.

While some delay in completion of the building has been experienced, Howard Pratt, general manager, said he expected the staff would move in on schedule, "although we may have to work under some difficulties for a few days."

The expansion with the addition of new branches has caused congestion in the present small offices. The surge in growth makes Alberni District Credit Union the third largest in British Columbia.

SPCA Gets More Money

DUNCAN—Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will receive more money from North Cowichan council next year.

Municipal councillors agreed in principle to allow 90 per cent of dog licence fees up to $4,000 and all fees over $4,000 total, to go to the SPCA.

The SPCA this year got 80 per cent up to $4,000.

The society will have to install more accommodations to maintain its service of Duncan, North Cowichan, and part of the unorganized area.

They will learn more about the proposed sewer system at a Chemainus Ratepayers' meeting later this month and early next month the engineer will be available for one day at the Chemainus municipal office to explain the scheme.

Council gave first three readings to seven different bylaws including the Chemainus sewer project.

Council will also inform Crofton Ratepayers' Association it will give favorable consideration to the purchase of property for access to a proposed boat basin if the association can obtain the foreshore lease.

PTA Booms

COWICHAN BAY — Parent-Teacher Association of Bench Elementary learned the group has doubled its membership since the new school term started in September.

Membership committee chairman Mrs. A. H. McIntosh, reported the association now has 40 members.

The group started with 20 members in September and last month added 13.

Seven more parents have joined, doubling the membership in the two-month period.

NEW BUDGET

Mrs. Orval Maxwell recommended the association set up a budget for the coming year to be based on last year's expenditures.

PTA members learned about the new primary language arts program from Mrs. R. S. Merry, elementary consultant for the Cowichan school district

READING METHOD

Mrs. Merry said primary children are being taught to read through a new method, which has produced good results, and she outlined the program for Grades One, Two and Three.

She said the students are learning to read by associating words with other objects and ideas.

A visitor at the meeting, Jim Quaife, chairman of the newly-formed South Cowichan Recreation Commission, outlined the aims and purposes of a commission, and explained community planning of a recreation centre in the unorganized territory.

He said if Bench PTA is interested in the commission, a member of the association could be appointed to sit on the advisory council of the commission.

John Stewart will represent the PTA at future commission meetings.

Car Hits Store Porch

Man Sees Rare Birds

The rare and beautiful birds circled over his home on Quadra Island and headed for a nearby marsh.

Mr. Dickie, who has done extensive research into the vanishing species, thought the birds must have strayed at least 500 miles off course.

The time we could spend trying to look different, we spend getting better.

We're not saying it's wrong to look different every year.

And they're very successful at it.

It's just that we'd rather put our time and money into getting better every year. Making improvements.

As you probably know, change is against our principles.

We could have taken the time to fuss about with fat fenders and big, chrome-covered grilles.

But we kept the sloping nose you're used to. So you can still see a lot of road.

What we did do with our time is add another defroster vent below the front windshield. So you see a lot of road more clearly in rainy or snowy weather.

We didn't spend our time dressing it up with fancy fins. We just lifted up the back hood and made our engine bigger. It's got 8½ more horsepower this year. And it's still just as economical.

And we did some other things to the Volkswagen that we wouldn't have had time for if we'd played with the styling.

Like improving the door locks. Adding a four-way emergency flasher. Installing automatic safety locks on the front-seat back rests. And brightening up the interiors with attractive new colour.

Why not visit a Volkswagen dealer and see just how much time we've spent getting better this year?

Copper Prices Slashed

LONDON (Reuters) — The price of copper slumped by nearly £30 ($80) a ton on the London Metal Exchange Thursday to £500 10s ($1,501.50).

A week ago the price had soared to £555 ($1,665)—highest for 12 years.

Dealers attributed Thursday's price slump to the following factors:

- Fears that the seizure of independence in Rhodesia would disrupt the movement of copper from Zambian mines through Rhodesia to the Portuguese East African ports have not materialized.
- The decision to release 200,000 tons of copper from the American stockpile will ease the supply position, though the release will be heavily controlled to prevent speculative buying.

U.S. Cuts Copper Prices

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Having succeeded in rocking the aluminum boat to the extent that manufacturers of the metal rescinded their price hike of a cent a pound last week, the U.S. government has turned to the copper industry with a similar attack on prices.

Defence Chief McNamara has ordered 200,000 tons of copper from the U.S. stockpile of slightly over 800,000 tons to be dumped on the market as a move to stabilize copper prices.

The effect on stocks of leading copper producers was quite dramatic. Kennecott, Anaconda, International Nickel and others shed as much as $2 to $4 per share.

SLIGHT RELIEF

Whether the dumping of 200,000 tons at between 36 and 38 cents a pound will have any permanent effect on copper prices remains to be seen.

The world's annual copper consumption is over 5,000,000 tons so that the U.S. dumping could be absorbed in a couple of weeks, and it will certainly only slightly relieve the shortage that exists in the metal.

As copper comes from hundreds of producers all over the world it is not an industry which can be controlled by any one country, even the United States.

With aluminum it was different. Most of the world's main producers are on the North American continent and they are a sufficiently small body to enable the U.S. government to exert on them the type of pressure that earlier was successfully put on the U.S. steel manufacturers.

In London, the centre of the free copper market, the price dropped Thursday by two cents a pound in sympathy with the U.S. move, but this was not highly important for the price in London is still 62½ cents a pound or 22½ cents more than the price being charged by the leading U.S. producers.

IN WRITING, PLEASE

New regulations to deal with accumulated buying and selling orders in any particular stock have been drafted by the Vancouver Stock Exhange as a sequel to problems arising from the splurge in Pine Point area stocks.

In future when it is necessary to suspend trading while buying and selling orders are matched, those with bids and offers will have to write them on separate cards and file with the floor governor who will match them and set the opening price.

It is hoped in this way a much more orderly method of marketing will be achieved. When Pyramid activity was at its peak the stock market was often showing consecutive deals varying by as much as three or four dollars between sales.

BEARS GET BOLDER

The short interest on the New York Stock Exchange rose to 9,883,422 shares at Nov. 15, an increase of 1,460,445 shares from Oct. 15, it is reported by the exchange.

Various interpretations can be made of a position in which an increasing number of people are willing to increase sales of stocks they do not own in the hope of picking them up later at a cheaper price.

BUYING CUSHION

On a downside market the presence of a heavy short position acts as a buying cushion while on a rising market it is inclined to create artificially high valuations.

As the present short position is equivalent to just over a normal day's trading, the position is not held to be too critical one way or the other, according to local market analysts.

PAYMENT STOPPED

Consolidated Building Corporation, owners of the Christie Point development in Victoria, has announced it will not pay its normal quarterly dividend of 6 cents normally paid in December.

The company says that owing to its large building program and the tight money conditions now in effect, it wishes at this stage to conserve cash.

Martin to Attend Socred Meeting

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett will be too busy to attend the national Social Credit convention in Edmonton next week but he will be represented there by Health Minister Eric Martin.

The premier said Thursday he has many important things to do in Victoria, including preparation of the new budget for the province.

Major Social Credit policy decisions are expected to come out of the convention, including one about the possibility of political re-alignment in Canada, Alberta Social Credit League president Orvis Kennedy said earlier this week.

Two B.C. cabinet ministers said Thursday they will attend the convention—Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan who is chairman of the resolutions committee and Mr. Martin who will represent the premier.

Esquimalt-Saanich MLA Herbert Bruch said he anticipates that five delegates from each of the 22 federal ridings in B.C. will also attend he convention.

GUEST SPEAKER

Health Minister Martin, the longest-serving Social Crediter in elective office in B.C., will speak Wednesday night during a testimonial banquet at Jubilee Auditorium in Edmonton.

He will pay tribute to the 30th anniversary of the Social Credit government in Alberta and to Premier E. C. Manning who has headed the government most of those years.

Resolutions and other convention business will be dealt with on Thursday and Friday.

Mr. Martin, who was named health and welfare minister the first day Social Credit came to power in B.C. in 1952, said he first accepted Social Credit policy in the year 1932.

He said he studied its policies carefully, "watched the Alberta situation closely and after the war took political action by organizing in B.C."

WE WERE READY

"We had worked in co-operation with the Alberta crowd, founded our own movement here in 1945 and I was the first vice-president of the B.C. Social Credit League for a number of years.

"When Mr. Bennett came to us in 1952 we were ready . . . we had the foundation ready, but Mr. Bennett, Mr. Bonner and Mrs. Tillie Rolston provided the structure which resulted in government," Mr. Martin said.

"This will be a good opportunity for us to pay tribute to Mr. Manning and his long-serving government."

Redecorating Starts Session Rumored

Painters are redecorating the main corridors and legislative chamber at the Legislative Buildings — but this is no sign that an early session will be called.

The bustling activity led to speculation that a session may be held earlier than the Jan. 27 date recently announced by Premier Bennett for start of the third session of the 27th legislative assembly.

But government officials said Thursday this activity is just a winter touch-up, the first repainting and redecorating to be done there during the past four or five years.

It is just "a happy coincidence," they said, that the work is being done so close to the scheduled opening date.

FAIRLANE 500 XL HARDTOP

Rakish new look for an exciting family car!

Everything's new! And the picture tells only half the story. This year's new Fairlane is one of the most beautiful "re-inventions" ever to happen to a car.

Style is sleek. From the side it's long and lean and moving. From the front it's wide and low and powerful. From the back the new Fairlane looks custom-built for performance.

Choice is complete: a new Fairlane GT series with GT stripes. A Fairlane 500 XL series with bucket seats and floor shift. An elegantly panelled Squire Wagon, with under-the-floor stowage and the wonderful new Magic Doorgate (swings open like a door for easy entrance, and drops down like a tailgate for easy loading). And a hot new convertible for sheer fun. Plus sedans, hardtops—thirteen new models to choose from.

Features are unique. Some you can see: curved side-windows for extra roominess, reversible keys, keyless locking, suspended accelerator pedal, foot-operated parking brake, a much bigger glove box. Other features you'll feel when you drive Fairlane.

The wider track and new suspension give you a smoother ride and flatter cornering. And Fairlane's new "torque-boxes" tune out noise and vibration, for the quietest ride you may have ever experienced.

If you're planning for a new car this year, you really owe it to yourself to see these new Fairlanes. Your Ford Dealer is open all day Saturday.

Long Battle Predicted In E&N Case

A writ filed in the Supreme Court by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. in connection with the government's E&N land assessment will probably be fought all the way to the Supreme Court of Canada, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Thursday.

Mr. Bonner said the government was served Thursday morning with a notice of the action taken by MacPowell Wednesday in the Supreme Court at Vancouver.

He said it is "a momentous piece of litigation" which will involve $38,000,000 to $40,000,000 in terms of assessment.

STARTS DEC. 6

The action started by MacPowell questions the validity of the Court of Revisions Act under which hearings are to be held in the Victoria Law Courts Dec. 6 on MacPowell's appeal against government assessment figures placed on $39,000 acres of land bought by the firm from the E&N land belt on Vancouver Island.

"This is essentially a constitutional argument," said the attorney-general. "It is going to take a great deal of effort and it may very well occupy the courts right to the Supreme Court of Canada."

STATUTE TEST

Mr. Bonner said he doubts very much that either MacPowell or the government would be content with the decision which is to be reached in the B.C. Supreme Court action.

He said MacPowell's action in Vancouver is "a litigation based on the validity of the statute under which the assessment was levied."

"We were served with the notice of the action this morning . . . we have not assigned anyone to the case at this point," the attorney-general said.

Baby Girl Killed By Plastic

VANCOUVER (CP)—A four-month-old girl was found dead in her bed Wednesday night, apparently suffocated by a piece of plastic.

A baby-sitter discovered Laurie Ritchie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ritchie, lying on her stomach with a piece of plastic under her face, apparently torn from a teddy bear. Efforts by a doctor and firemen to revive the baby failed.

Judge Greets Lawyer Son

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren smiled broadly as he welcomed into law practice before the U.S. Supreme Court his son, Earl Warren Jr., 35. The chief justice said: "Mr. Warren, I welcome you to the bar of the court. You may proceed to the clerk's desk to take the oath."

Marriage Killed by Kindness

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Leona P. Jeske testified she suffered serious mental anguish because her husband Carl, 68, whom she married less than two years ago, never let her make morning coffee, insisted on doing the cooking, and always washed the dishes.

Whenever she baked a cake, Mrs. Jeske complained, her husband insisted on taking it out of the oven so she wouldn't get burned.

"He certainly was attentive, but he treated me like a child," she told Superior Judge Lyle Cook, who granted her the uncontested divorce.

★ ★ ★

Planning Expert Appointed

Geoffrey J. Greenhalgh of Calgary was appointed director of the city's new department of community planning at a special council meeting Thursday.

Mr. Greenhalgh was selected from among 43 applicants for the post which has been vacant since the disintegration last July of the special projects division at City Hall following the resignation of its chief, Roderick Clack, and his two assistants.

The new department will have over-all control of all city planning, zoning and long-range use of resources.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The new director will report to city council through the office of the city manager.

A special committee set up to screen applications narrowed the field to six, after which a series of interviews began Nov. 8.

HOLDS DEGREES

Personal references were investigated and on Wednesday the committee met again and made the appointment, subject to ratification by city council Thursday.

Presently employed as deputy director of planning for Calgary, Mr. Greenhalgh holds a degree in architecture from the University of Manchester and the equivalent of a master's degree in planning from the same institution.

IN REGINA

After experience in Britain he joined the city of Regina in 1957 as deputy director of planning and a year later was appointed director.

In 1960 he joined the Calgary planning staff as deputy director.

Decision of the special committee which included J. R. Genge, chairman of the city's Advisory Planning Commission and A. H. Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, was unanimous.

Navy Man Wins Top Prize—Again

A naval chief petty officer with a knack for saving government money has won an award from the suggestion award board of Canada for the third time in three years.

The latest suggestion by CPO E. S. Crone, 1790 Keith, is a method of reducing the size of textbooks used in fleet school at HMCS Naden. A second suggestion calls for combining a textbook and notebook.

In 1963, he suggested a more economical method of cleaning ship's fuel tanks and bilges, and in 1964 his idea was a faster and more efficient method of fueling ships. Both ideas are now in effect throughout the fleet.

CPO Crone will be retiring from the navy early next year after 24 years' service.

One to Suit Every Kitchen

Dishwashers Great Boon to Family

Modern dishwashers are a great boon to the family, and there's one to suit every kitchen—under-the-counter, portable or mobile, convertible, and decorator finishes.

Eliminating a three-times-a-day chore is quite a step, but the dishwasher does just that. The dishes—and pots and pans—are stacked away in the dishwasher after every meal or snack to be washed, rinsed, dried, and even sanitized, automatically.

An element boosts water temperatures to 140-160 degrees—hotter than hands could possibly stand—and the same element dries the dishes. It can also be used as a plate warmer before meals.

The results are startling—sparkling dishes, glasses, and even pots and pans, that are germ-free and provide new measures of health safety for all the family.

Dishwasher sales are zooming, and the appliance is taking its place more as a necessity and less as a luxury item.

Reed, Coffey Picked by All Grid Voters

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fullback George Reed, who rushed for more than one mile, and end Tommy-Joe Coffey, who caught a record-equalling 81 passes, were the only unanimous choices for positions on the 1965 Western Football Conference all-star team announced today.

Coffey, whose catches for last place Edmonton Eskimos matched a record he set last year, was one of five players who broke through a three-club domination of the 25-man team selected by the football reporters of Canada. The extra player resulted from a tie for an offensive half spot.

Calgary Stampeders, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders—who finished one-two-three respectively in the standings—took 20 places.

The Stampeders and the Bombers each had seven players honored; Saskatchewan six, including Reed; Edmonton three and British Columbia Lions, defending champions who plunged to fourth place this season, two.

The makeup: Offence—Five Riders; four Bombers; two Stamps; two Eskimos. Defence—Five Stampeders; three Blue Bombers; two Lions; one Roughrider, one Eskimo.

* * *

Wayne Harris of Calgary received unanimous support on defence from the 24 voting members but two placed him at corner linebacker. The others put him at interior linebacker.

Reed, 24, a graduate of Washington State College, was named Canada's Outstanding Player for grinding out 1,768 yards and establishing a one-game conference rushing record—268 yards—in his third WFC season.

He also was chosen the WFC's Most Valuable Player before making his first all-star team.

Reed is only the second player in Canadian Football League history to exceed one mile rushing in a single season. Fullback Earl Lunsford of Calgary drove for 1,794 yards in 1961.

His partners in the offensive backfield are Lovell Coleman of Calgary, halfback Dave Raimey of Winnipeg, halfback Jim Thomas of Edmonton, flanker Hugh Campbell of Saskatchewan and quarterback Kenny Ploen of Winnipeg.

Herman Harrison of Calgary is Coffey's fellow end.

* * *

Fullback Coleman, Canada's Outstanding Player in 1964, finished second to Reed in rushing with 1,508 yards. He was the leader in 1963 and 1964.

Campbell caught 73 passes for a WFC-record 1,329 yards to finish a notch ahead of Harrison in the receiving department. Herman caught 53 passes for 828 yards.

Ploen had the second-best pass completion average among quarterbacks—58.2 per cent with 124 successes on 213 attempts.

* * *

A measure of B.C.'s decline was that only two Lions made the team. In 1964 they placed nine on the squad. Only one Lion was considered for offence—tackle Ken Sugarman—and he got just one vote.

Gray, Canada's outstanding lineman in 1960, made his seventh all-star unit. Teammate Rigney, the WFC's Most Valuable Lineman in 1960 and 1961 and Canada's best in 1961, was on his sixth.

Wakeham's 66 Good for Lead

CARACAS (AP)—Bill Wakeham of Calgary and Victoria, who turned pro only 15 months ago, fired a four-under-par 66 Thursday and took the first-round lead in the Caracas Open golf tournament in this Venezuelan capital.

Alvie Thompson, who moved to Toronto from Vancouver some five years ago, was second, one stroke back.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg also made the top 10 with a par 70.

Spain's Roman Sota, the French Open champion, was third with a 68, one shot better than countrymen Angel Miguel and Americans Wes Ellis and Jack Rule.

Tied at 70 with Homenuik were Homero Blancas, recent winner of the Mexico Open, and Bob McCallister of the United States.

Keenan Returns To Leafs

Larry

Larry Keenan, who scored 35 goals and assisted on 20 others last season, arrived back in Victoria late Wednesday night to rejoin the Maple Leafs but it will be at least three or four weeks before he takes his place in the lineup.

The 25-year-old centreman had a cartilage removed from a knee just after Toronto Maple Leafs opened their training camp in Peterborough in September and is still on the limp.

He had been scheduled to work out in Toronto as soon as he was able to get on skates but lack of readily-available ice stymied that. He skated twice yesterday at Memorial Arena but is not expected to be ready to play until mid-December.

Whether Ed Litzenberger will remain with the Leafs after Keenan is ready to play remains to be seen but the lanky veteran was sent here from Rochester as a replacement when it was discovered Keenan would be unavailable for the first two months of the season.

Tonight the Leafs go to Vancouver to try and head off a new threat to the security of themselves and Portland Buckaroos.

They meet the Canucks for the third time this season, host them tomorrow and could find things a bit different than when they started the season wih 4-2 and 7-2 victories over Bert Olmstead's skaters.

That 4-2 win in the opener was the only defeat Canucks have suffered on their home ice.

Kick Costs C-Note

Defenceman Doug Messier of the Portland Buckaroos has been fined $100 and won't be among the skaters when the Buckaroos play their next game in Victoria on Jan. 11, it was announced yesterday by president Al Leader of the Western Hockey League.

Messier received a delayed match penalty here on Nov. 13, for kicking John Sleaver in the third period of a game won by the Maple Leafs, 5-2.

LOS ANGELES—Los Angeles Blades managed to beat the tough Portland defence for five goals Thursday night but could not stop the Buckaroos in their own zone and took a 7-5 beating in a Western Hockey League game played before only 3,262 fans.

Result moved the Buckaroos, who have played three extra games, four points ahead of Victoria Maple Leafs and left the Blades just two points ahead of the trailing Seattle Totems.

FOUR IN ROW

Four straight goals, three of them in the first 10 minutes and six seconds of the second period, after the Blades had opened the scoring, proved too much. The Blades got to 4-5 early in the third period but a breakaway effort by Tom McVie 24 seconds later put the Buckaroos in the clear.

Gerry Goyer led the winning attack with a goal and three assists. Art Jones scored once, regaining the league point lead from Bill McNeill and Howie Hughes of Vancouver, and Cliff Schmautz got his 12th goal to regain the goal-scoring lead.

Saturday night it will be the Chiefs and Athletics at 7.30 and the Chinooks vs North Shore Mountaineers in an Inter-City Junior Men's League game at 9.

The weekend has been designated as a time of tribute to local minor basketball, and all minor players will be admitted for 10 cents each night. Chinook season ticket holders will be allowed in for both games Saturday.

Minor league players may obtain their special passes from team managers or by phoning Bob Bird at EV 5-0793.

Athletics, who beat Chiefs twice in Alberni last weekend, will be using a former Victoria player tonight and tomorrow. Barry Sadler, who plays soccer for Victoria United and commutes from Alberni, will be in the Alberni lineup.

Pulford Sparks Toronto Win

TORONTO 3, MONTREAL 1

MONTREAL — Bob Pulford, with help from the amazing Eddie Shack and newcomer Larry Jeffrey, led a third-period comeback Thursday night which brought Toronto Maple Leafs a 3-1 National Hockey League win over Montreal Canadiens.

Pulford, who had been playing his usual strong-checking game for two periods, assisted twice and scored once as the Leafs managed three third-period goals to erase the 1-0 advantage Canadiens had nursed since midway through the first period.

Shack, who scored twice in a Toronto victory Saturday night and was chosen the No. 1 star of the game, banged in the rebound after Pulford's shot to tie the score at 6:09.

About five minutes later, Jeffrey steered Pulford's pass past Gump Worsley, and then Pulford, out as a penalty-killer, made sure of it in the last minute by scoring into an open goal.

Canadiens had enjoyed an edge in play up until the third period in what was a tame game between two old rivals. Referee Art Skov handed out only three penalties, the first in the 18th minute of the second period. Aside from a couple of stiff checks between Shack and John Ferguson, his Montreal counterpart, there was little physical contact.

Shack, however, continued to play well. He made several good rushes and missed getting things started for Toronto earlier only because Pulford shot wide after Shack had set him up in the second period.

Ralph Backstrom started the scoring when he rapped in Dave Balon's rebound but Canadiens couldn't ever again get the best of Johnny Bower, who was particularly good in the first 20 minutes to keep the Leafs close.

Harris May Watch Stamps and Bombers

CALGARY—Each side has a few walking wounded but only Calgary's Wayne Harris appears to be a doubtful starter for the deciding game of the Western Football Conference final between the Stampeders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers tomorrow.

This does not count Winnipeg linebacker Ken Maglicic, who is on the 30-day injured list with a sprained ankle and missed Wednesday's game in Winnipeg.

Harris, who this week was voted the outstanding lineman in Canada, has been playing despite a painful groin-muscle injury and it appears to have worsened.

If he is unable to play, the Stampeders may move Don Stephenson to Harris' spot and reactivate defensive-end Ron Payne to take over from Stephenson at corner-linebacker.

Tackle Roger Kramer has a sore knee, halfback Ted Woods a sore shoulder, fullback Lovell Coleman a sore ankle and guard Hal Krebs has a disc problem but all are expected in the Calgary lineup.

For Winnipeg, defensive-end Mario Mariani has a hip hurt and tackle Cornel Piper a pulled muscle but neither injury is considered serious. Quarterback Kenny Ploen, who had the same knee banged in both the first games, will start.

Open Date Set

VANCOUVER (CP)—The $100,000 Canadian Open golf tournament will be staged at Shaughnessy golf club here Sept. 29-Oct. 2.

Overtime Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—The Eastern Football Conference is prepared in case Saturday's Ottawa-Hamilton game ends with their playoff series tied.

"We have an established procedure for ties," said league commissioner Hap Shouldice Thursday.

"If the two-game series is tied on total points at the end of the game in Hamilton there will be a 10-minute rest and then a 20 - minute overtime game."

There would be a kickoff to start each 10-minute half in overtime.

"Then if the teams are still tied, there will be a five-minute rest—the players will not be able to leave the field—and they will go into sudden-death overtime.

"We flip a coin to see which team has the choice of kicking or receiving or taking one end of the field and keep on playing until one team scores a point."

University Repeats Win Over United

University of Victoria made it two victories in four nights over First United by defeating the church team, 30-23, in a junior women's basketball game played last night at S. J. Willis Junior High School.

Jean Robertson led the winners last night with 10 points while Linda Edge was top scorer in the game with 11. On Monday, in the 33-19 win, Lyn Hagglund had 16 points for the students while Gail Streeton got 10 for the losers.

Norm Smith scored 12 points for Esquimalt as they trimmed St. Louis College, 40-8, in a bantam boys' game.

Underworld Hold On Ernie Terrell?

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The California Athletic Commission charged Thursday that Ernie Terrell, World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, is controlled by the underworld.

Dr. Dan P. Kilroy, commission chairman, issued a statement urging all jurisdictions to refrain from permitting Terrell to box until he can demonstrate he is free from "undesirable influences."

"The California commission is appalled at the suggestion that Ernest Terrell would be permitted to box for any title so long as Bernard Glickman remains his manager," Kilroy said.

In the statement, Kilroy reviewed the 1961 conviction in Los Angeles of Frankie Carbo and Frank (Blinky) Palermo on charges of trying to muscle in on the managerial interests of Don Jordan after he had won the world welterweight title from Virgil Akins.

"The California commission played a leading role in bringing these matters to the attention of proper authorities for prosecution," said Kilroy.

WON'T REMAIN SILENT

"Now events are occurring in other jurisdictions over which the California commission has no control, but the California commission does not feel it should remain silent and watch a return to the conditions which existed prior to the conviction of Carbo and Palermo."

"Until recently, Ernest Terrell was managed by Julius Isaacson. However, after Terrell got the title, Isaacson was thrown out and Bernard Glickman appeared as the manager of Terrell.

CO-MANAGER

"The California commission remembers Bernard Glickman as co-manager of Akins. Glickman was closely associated with Frank Carbo, lent Carbo money as one friend to another, consulted with Carbo on hundreds of occasions in regard to fights, made bets with Carbo on fights, and called Carbo the good will ambassador of boxing before the Kefauver committee investigating boxing."

Oak Bay waters are giving up the best fishing in two years with winter springs in the 10 to 12-pound class, with the odd one as heavy as 16 pounds being taken on spoons, herring strip and minnows.

Trial Island and Goat Island are the hot spots. Discovery Island, Chain Islands and The Gap are good bets.

Secretary Island, Pedder Bay, Becher Bay, Esquimalt Harbor, Victoria waterfront are all still good bets for winter springs and will be for some weeks yet.

Saanich Inlet fishing is rated "very good" pretty well anywhere in the Inlet, with the biggest concentration of springs, and still a few coho jumping with the hundreds of chums (dogs), in the bottom end of Finlayson Arm in the Chesterfield Rock, Misery Bay, Goldstream Island triangle.

George McWilliam reports bluebacks and grilse from Willis Point to McKenzie Bay and winter springs in Tod Inlet and on the Bamberton side down to McCurdy Point. Krippled K spoons and gang troll and worms are getting the grilse, many of which are legal size.

Jim Gilbert reports an abundance of minnows in the Inlet and says fish are taking at all depths. He says the biggest fish are at the bottom of the Inlet.

Freshwater fishing interest has slackened off with an intensified interest in deer hunting brought about by antlerless season and a better hunter success than experienced earlier in the hunting season.

But there are still plenty of trout to be taken and we have heard of one, just one, steelhead from the Cowichan River.

On a 10-mile float of the Cowichan River Saturday we landed and released silver coho, bright jacksprings, and steelhead smolts.

The river was high, very high, and the few anglers we talked to on the way downstream had met with little success, although some had fish.

There have been few incidents of malicious damage by hunters or other recreationists reported to us this year, but here is a nasty report from the Nov. 11 weekend.

The truck was parked in a gravel pit behind a no entry sign which was specifically aimed at hunters. This company has a full public access policy even to active logging areas. Few of its areas are closed.

There were three shots through the radiator of the truck, one shot through each of the windshields and one tire was shot.

In the camp area on the same day a new three-quarter horsepower motor was stolen from a fire hose washer.

The Mac-Powell Company is prepared to prosecute and RCMP are investigating the incidents.

The B.C. Wildlife Federation is prepared to help logging companies who give public access to apprehend people who endanger this access by doing wilful damage.

The Federation will pay rewards up to $500 for information leading to the conviction of persons doing wanton damage to the property of timber companies, farmers, ranchers, mining companies, and any other companies or individuals allowing hunters and fishermen access to property they control.

In co-operation with the Forest Industries of B.C. posters advertising the reward fund have been printed and will be posted by individual fish and game clubs in their particular areas.

People who use these access areas should feel a responsibility to protect them, even without a reward. It is in their own interest.

Monday's meeting of the Victoria Fish and Game Club fishing chapter is one most anglers won't want to miss. It is the annual steelhead night and experts from Cowichan, Nanaimo, Chemainus, Koksilah, San Juan and Sooke Rivers will be on hand to tell how to fish their particular rivers. Meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the conference room, second floor of the Forest Research Laboratory, 1506 Burnside, and NOT at the Goldstream Clubhouse as usual.

Big Entry For Squash

Als Fire Jim Trimble

Game over

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Jim Trimble, who directed Montreal Alouettes to a third-place finish in the Eastern Football Conference this season, will not be back next year.

A spokesman for the Montreal club made the announcement Thursday in a prepared statement following a meeting of the team's directors.

"The board of directors of the Montreal Alouettes has decided not to renew its contract with head coach Jim Trimble," the statement said.

FROM HAMILTON

Trimble, who in three years at the Montreal helm had guided the team to only 17 wins against 25 losses, came here in 1963 from Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

While at Hamilton he had amassed a remarkable 61-28-2 mark in seven seasons.

Trimble took the Ticats to a 11-6 record in playoff competition, but he was unable to get by the semi-finals while coaching here. He was beaten in the playoffs the last three seasons by Ottawa Rough Riders.

COACH OF YEAR

He was the first winner of the Annis Stukus Trophy as the Canadian Football League coach of the year in 1961 while at Hamilton.

The Alouettes' board of directors held its first of two meetings to decide the coach's fate last Thursday.

Before last week's meeting, co-owner Joe Atwell had said the club executive would examine every aspect of the team's operation and that he did not think a change in coaching would offer a complete solution to the Als' problems.

Trimble figured his troubles had been solved early this year when the Montreal club obtained the services of veteran quarterback Bernie Faloney from the Ticats. In addition, he obtained defensive halfbacks Ralph Goldston and Jackie Simpson from the Hamilton club.

However, he was forced to give up offensive end-defensive tackle Billy Ray Locklin, 27; guard Dick Walton, 23; and defensive halfbacks Billy Wayte, 26, and Ted Page, 22. All four have proved standouts with the Ticats this season in their march to first place in the EFC.

Westrum Succeeds Stengel

Westrum, who took over as interim manager of the National League baseball club when Stengel fractured his left hip July 25, was given a one-year contract.

Westrum, who will be 43 Nov. 28, was in his second year as a Met coach when he was named interim manager.

Under the former major league catcher, the Mets won 19 games and lost 48 for a .284 percentage. They were 31-64, .336, under Stengel.

Westrum retired as a player in 1957 after 11 seasons with New York Giants before they shifted to San Francisco in 1958. He became a Giant coach that year and held that job until 1964 when he joined the Mets.

Late Late Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Three theatres in London, Glasgow and Birmingham, England, have sold all 9,100 seats for Monday's Cassius Clay-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight to be beamed across the ocean by the Early Bird satelite, at 3:30 a.m., British time.

Roy Garcia, vice-president of SportsVision, the closed circuit television firm handling the fight, announced the sellouts of three of the eight theatres to carry the bout in the British Isles.

Firefighters Coming United Gets Ready

Vancouver Firefighters are coming to town tomorrow, and that means the sternest test of the season for Victoria United.

Still well placed in the Coast Soccer League standings because of games in hand, United will need its very best effort to have a chance against a club which is threatening to make the league race a runaway.

Firefighters have averaged four goals a game in their six games, and have won them all while allowing but three goals. Theirs is a rare combination of the best attack and the best on defence.

Ken Pears, the finest keeper the league has had for perhaps a decade or more, is the backbone of the defence. The still-youngish veteran has never been beaten more than once in a game this season and boasts three shutouts.

On offence, the Firemen have three of the league's top scorers. Inside-right Jim Blundell leads with six scoring shots while inside-left Bob Babcock and leftwinger Tom Millar have five each. With Art Hughes at centre and Louis Trischuk at outside-right, the Firefighters are certain to keep the United defence busy.

United will field almost the same lineup it has used in recent games. Al Davies is expected to start in goal with Don McIntosh and Len Anderson at fullback and George Paul, Bill Hamilton and Dave Stothard on the intermediate line.

Injuries will likely keep winger Dunc McCaig out of action and could affect Peter Gooding but Gooding is expected to start on a forwards line which will have Jamieson with Gooding on centre, Ike MacKay right and Bert Soutar and Russ Ball on the left. Spares are a problem but coach Frank Grealy expects to call on Doug Hill of Victoria West and juvenile-star Dave Graas for bench strength.

Game time is at 2 p.m. and the place is Royal Athletic Park.

Capital Projects Referendum

Saanich Will Consider Two Ballots Dec. 11

Saanich's capital budget referendum will go before the ratepayers on two separate ballots Dec. 11.

Saanich council Tuesday removed the two outdoor heated swimming pools from the main capital projects budget.

The two proposed pools, costing $300,000, for construction in the Gordon Head and Tillicum-Burnside areas, will be submitted to the voters on a ballot completely separate from the main projects ballot.

APPROVAL SOUGHT

"In taking this action, council points out that the remainder of the capital budget is considered essential, whereas the swimming pools can be classified as desirable district amenities," Reeve Hugh Curtis said Thursday.

He said he hoped both ballots —for pools and the larger portion of the capital project list— will meet with ratepayer approval.

60 PER CENT NEEDED

With the pools on a separate ballot, the capital budget will now amount to a borrowing of $2,450,000.

The two issues require a 60 per cent affirmative vote to pass.

The largest item on the budget is land acquisition, $1,050,000. Others are construction and reconstruction of McKenzie Avenue from Douglas to Ruby Road, $951,000; drainage of Bowker Creek north of Blair, $215,000; contingencies, $234,000.

Reeve Curtis said council felt it desirable to buy land now while it is still available.

He cited the McRae estate off Cedar Hill Road, which includes the Cedar Hill golf course, as an example of land available now to the municipality, but would be lost forever to the public if a private developer purchased the property.

OAS Bid Given Canada

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) —Argentina has called on Canada, Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago to join the U.S. and 18 Latin American nations in the Organization of American States.

Foreign Minister Miguel Angel Zavala Ortiz said at the opening of the OAS foreign ministers conference: " . . . One must recognize that America is not only Latin, and that all America should be in the organization."

The three Commonwealth countries, he said, would bring to the OAS their traditional desires for peace and their efforts for regional welfare.

He said that during the month of October, 343 B.C. companies, 31 out-of-province companies, and 18 societies were registered, compared with 307 new B.C. companies, 30 out-of-province companies and 18 societies during October, 1964.

'She Was Crying'

Jury Hears How Mother Rained Blows on Child

Did three blows lead to the death of six-month-old Kimberley Bilton?

The baby's mother, 25-year-old Mary Jean Bilton, admitted striking her twice on the forehead with a closed fist and slapping her on the cheek before finding the baby dead, police witnesses told a Victoria assize jury Thursday.

Afterward, the baby's death was kept hidden for almost two weeks, it is alleged.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Pathologist Dr. Ross McNeely had stated earlier in the hearing that because of the baby's decomposed state when found covered up in its crib July 2, he was unable to say what caused its death.

The prosecution concluded its case against Mrs. Bilton Thursday night by withdrawing a charge alleging she caused the baby's death by criminal negligence.

Mrs. Bilton is still accused of manslaughter and assault causing bodily harm.

Det. Lorne Johnson was first to tell of an interview police had with Mrs. Bilton early July 3 after the housekeeper was taken to police headquarters.

HIT ON HEAD

She was asked how the baby died and replied she had hit her over the head because she had been crying for half an hour.

The detective said Mrs. Bilton told him the baby had continued to cry for about 20 minutes and then she returned to the bedroom and the baby had "stopped (crying) and seemed all right."

BABY DEAD

About 9 a.m. the next day (June 20), she went to the baby's crib. ". . . I knew she was dead and I had killed her," Det. Johnson testified she had said.

She did not inform anyone of her baby's death "because I did not know what would happen to me," he said Mrs. Bilton added.

The accused said she had hit the baby twice on the forehead with a closed fist and once on the cheek. "The first two blows were as hard as I could hit, the third blow was a slap," the officer stated she had said.

"I asked the accused," said Det. Johnson, "how she was able to sleep in the same room as her dead baby and how she was able to stand the smell.

OUT OF MIND

"She replied she just put it out of her mind as though it had never happened."

The officer added Mrs. Bilton remained calm while giving her statement, but broke down when she mentioned striking the baby.

In answer to a question by Robert Weir, defence counsel, Det. Johnson said Mrs. Bilton told police she had been to a beer parlor that night (July 2).

Selfridge's Sold for $60,000,000

LONDON (CP) — Charles Clore, whose takeovers in British business have made him a rags-to-riches legend, apparently has succeeded in his biggest venture yet, acquisition of Selfridge's in London and a dozen other department stores in the United Kingdom.

British Shoe Corp., Clore's major holding, originally bid £55,000,000 ($165,000,000) for Lewis's Investment Trust, which owns the department stores, and was rebuffed.

Wednesday, British Shoe increased its offer by a shilling (15 cents) a share—to a total of nearly £60,000,000 — and Lewis's directors gave in.

For Park

Riding Area Bought By Oak Bay

The last major tract of land in Oak Bay has been bought by the municipality for a park.

RESTRICTED

"We're sorry to see the riding academy go, but its activities were restricted with the purchase of university land in the area."

Academy operator Don Carley will have three years to plan his move, as the municipality at this time will take over only the wooded portion of the area fronting on Henderson Park.

It will take over the remainder at the end of 1968.

START WORK

The Oak Bay recreation commission and a special committee will soon start to work on plans for the area, Reeve Cox said.

The area is bounded on the north by Cedar Hill Cross Road, on the west by Henderson Park, on the south by Uplands Golf Course, and on the east by the university.

Bridge Results

Winners of the fourth game of the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club's six-week series were: Section A—1, Vaughan Thompson and George Morgan; 2, Dick Lipsey and Bill McConnell; 3, Les Isaacson and George Marsden; 4, Joan Smith and Bill Browne-Cave; 5, Anne and Earle Dyer; 6, Ida Drage and Sadie MacPherson. Section B—1, Cam Cameron and Leo Stell; 2, Eric Ware and Harry Brawn; 3, Phil Hagel and Tony Marsh; 4, Minna Loomer and Margaret McAvoy; 5, Jo Waddington and Gwen Graham; 6, Ron Smith and Al Kalberg.

Richter Plans Sessions

Agriculture Minister Frank Richter announced Wednesday he hopes to introduce an annual agricultural outlook and development program, during three regional meetings which will be held in B.C. next year.

"The aim is to focus attention on the broad spectrum of potential agricultural supply and demand by hearing from a representative cross-section of the industry and those serving it," he said.

The meetings will be held in Prince George on Jan. 5 and 6, Penticton on Jan. 10 and 11 and in Vancouver on Jan. 13 and 14.

"It is not proposed to establish policy at these meetings but rather to obtain as good a guide and outlook for the future as possible," Mr. Richter said.

Will the Laird allow his single malt whisky to marry?

The Laird's pride and joy is a rare malt whisky his family has been distilling for generations, deep in the Scottish highlands.

It's one of the 42 different whiskies that are expertly blended to create Ballantine's Scotch. Once blended, these whiskies are allowed to mingle, or "marry", in oaken casks for a period of years.

It's a natural process. And it's the only way to impart the mellow smoothness and authentic flavour that is Ballantine's.

Most whiskies are made this way. But with some, it's a marriage of convenience.

The Laird would have none of that.

His whisky, and the others that go into Ballantine's, are made for each other.

You might even call it a love match.

NDP Warning

'Positive Action' Demanded

SASKATOON, Sask. (UPI)— National NDP leader T. C. Douglas Thursday sounded a warning to the minority administration Prime Minister Pearson will head after Parliament reconvenes Jan. 18.

He said if the Liberals do not take what the NDP considers positive steps within "a reasonable period of time" he would support a motion of no-confidence.

Here to address the annual convention of the Saskatchewan CCF-NDP association, Mr. Douglas told a news conference his party will take advantage of the minority government by attempting to force implementation of the NDP socialist program.

Contract 'Kitty'

GM Workers To Get Bonus

DETROIT (AP) — About 350,000 General Motors production workers will share a $14,000,000 kitty next month.

It's the so-called Christmas bonus which the United Auto Workers union negotiated in 1964 contracts.

The bonus, from Supplemental Unemployment Benefits, was negotiated with GM and Ford Motor Co., but Ford won't be paying one. Ford's required "maximum funding" level of its S.U.B. fund is out of reach at this time. A Ford spokesman said this resulted from Ford's increasing hiring of workers forcing a rise in the maximum funding level.

The GM payment will come to about $40 for each eligible employee and will be paid Dec. 17.

The auto union negotiated a bonus arrangement with GM and Ford after closing its contract with Chrysler, third of the U.S. auto industry's "big three." The Chrysler contract does not provide for the bonus.

S.U.B., universal in the U.S. auto industry, is the company payment to a discharged or laid-off worker which supplements his regular unemployment compensation from state funds.

★ ★ ★

GM and Ford contribute five cents an hour for each employee to their S.U.B. funds. When the fund reaches maximum funding with no further contributions necessary, the five cents goes into a special account. If this special fund reaches a certain figure, the money is distributed to employees at the end of the year.

Indians Claim Pakistani Toll

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India claimed Thursday 30 Pakistani soldiers were killed and eight captured in a "sizeable clash" with Indian forces in the desert state of Rajasthan.

The fighting occurred Wednesday in the Jaiselmer region near the Indo-Pakistan border, the defence ministry said. Indian losses were placed at three killed and four wounded.

Four Men Acquitted In Frejus Dam Case

DRAGUIGNAN, France (Reuters)—Four men charged with serious negligence in the 1959 Frejus dam collapse which killed 400 persons have been acquitted here.

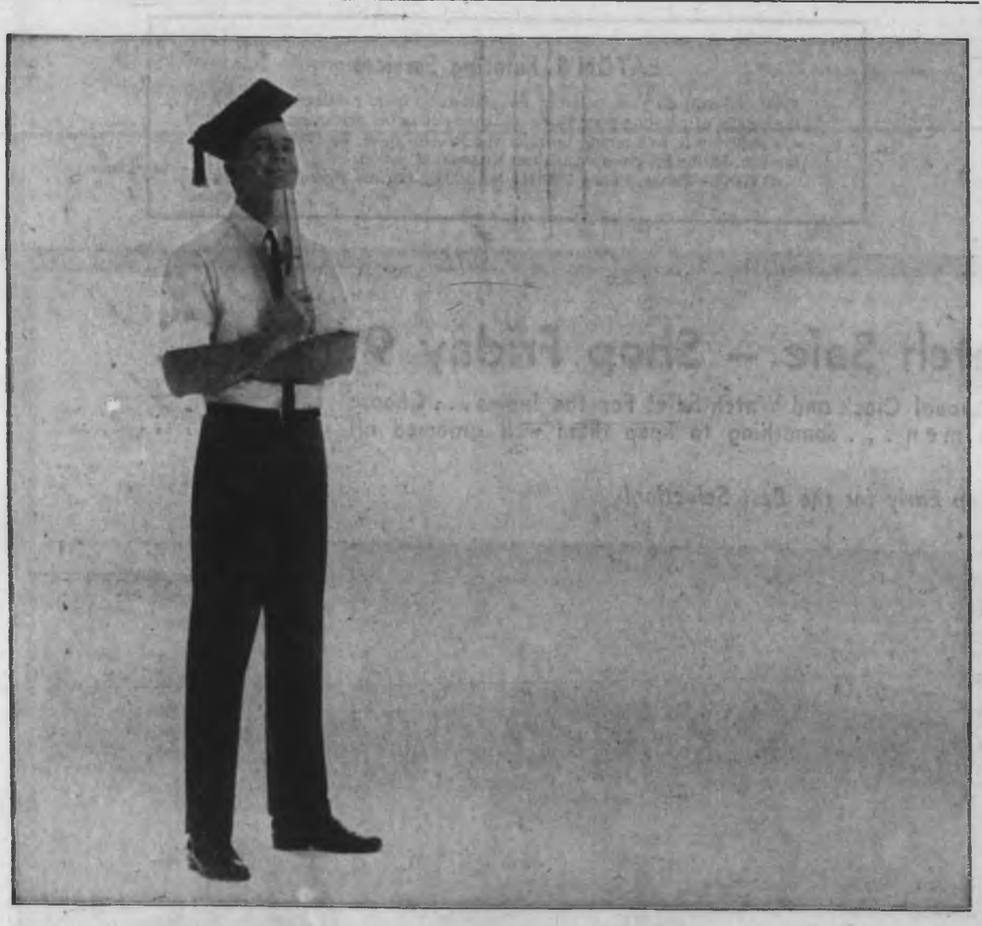

They are Leon Nourrit, engineer for the local authority; Jean Bellier, associate and son-in-law of the builder of the dam; Raymond Martin, former manager for the surveyors; and Jean Kaufman, a director of the survey company. The builder, Andre Coyne, died five years ago.

Survivors of the disaster charged that it was caused by a crack in the dam that was not repaired properly.

The court ruled they had failed to prove alleged faults in the administration or maintenance of the dam.

Many Armstrong flooring dealers hold an "M.F.I. Degree"!

Corlon sheet vinyl floors are too valuable to be handled by amateurs, so Armstrong dealers attend "college" to learn how to do a flawless installation job.

These masters of flooring installation (M.F.I.) are ready, willing and able to advise you about floors. So if you're planning to redecorate, build a home or add a room, find out why Armstrong Corlon is the choice of people who are determined to live graciously.

Corlon's beauty is permanent because the design goes through to the backing. The colours can't wear off—ever. And its surface can't be marred by normal household spills.

Some Corlons have a gently textured surface you can actually feel, which helps hide accidental scuffs and spiked heel marks, while other Corlon stylings have smooth surfaces. Some designs come with an exclusive alkali-resistant Hydrocord backing. These can be installed in any room, even in most downstairs playrooms, directly on the concrete, eliminating the need for costly sub-flooring.

Corlon is available in 6 foot wide rolls giving your room a modern wall-to-wall effect, and the few seams are virtually invisible. You'll pay more for Corlon, but its value makes it a sound investment.

We'll send you a free sample of Corlon and colourful booklets, showing styles and colourings of all Armstrong Corlon sheet vinyl floors.

Three Parties

Crusader Wallace Dies at 77

DANBURY, Conn. (AP)—Henry Agard Wallace, 77, former U.S. vice-president, candidate for president and controversial crusader for "the more abundant life," died Thursday.

The shy, grey - haired man died in Danbury hospital, two hours after he was taken there from his farm in South Salem, N.Y.

Doctors gave the cause of death as a stoppage of the breathing function due to a nerve-muscle ailment and hardening of body tissues.

POLITICAL MAVERICK

A political maverick from the soil of Iowa, Wallace joined and quit three political parties in his lifetime—Republican, Democratic and Progressive.

Hot criticism centred on him in 1948 when he was the Progressive party candidate for president of the United States. He was accused of being a captive of Communists. He denied he was a Marxist of any sort and lived to see himself listed by Moscow as among "the enemies of mankind."

BEATEN SOUNDLY

Wallace got only 1,157,000 votes in 1948 and failed to carry a single state. Harry S. Truman was elected with 34,105,000.

In private life Wallace was a skilled participator in the genetic revolution which, among other things, has added billions of dollars to U.S. crop values in the form of hybrid corn. He was among the developers of hybrid strains of corn.

Later he took to improving chickens, gladioli and strawberries.

Six Divisions Will Keep Small-School Warmth

University Battles Bigness

By BILL STAVDAL

The University of Victoria may divide its growing campus into "colleges" to preserve small-school warmth, president Malcolm Taylor announced Thursday.

At least six colleges are envisioned in a report of a university Senate committee which will be submitted to the faculty and students for their views.

Dr. Peter Smith, chairman of the faculty association and Paul Williamson, president of the student Alma Mater Society, personally approved of the proposal Thursday. They were both members of the committee which unanimously endorsed the report.

Said Dr. Taylor in a prepared statement:

"The view was clearly stated that new arrangements must be made now to maintain the close personal relationships that have always existed in Victoria between members of the faculty and the individual student.

"Only by taking such steps can we hope to avoid the major problem faced today by all large and growing major universities.

"It is essential that we ward off the danger of alienation of students from faculty, and from one another, that has become a distressing fact elsewhere," said Dr. Taylor.

The plan envisages expanding student housing to accommodate between 1,500 and 2,100 men and women. Present accommodation is for only 142 women.

The residences would be grouped to form the nucleus of at least six colleges, each of them including 350 to 450 non-resident students.

AMS president Paul Williamson said:

"I'm very much in favor of it. The college system and the personal relationships that would be set up are extremely desirable.

★ ★ ★

"I'll be surprised if there isn't widespread support among the students."

Dr. Smith, the faculty association chairman, commented:

"In a college a student can get to know a few professors and a few students quite well. It removes the anonymity that is a feature of the larger universities."

In his statement Dr. Taylor referred to the unrest that disturbed the University of California's Berkeley campus a year ago. The 25,000 students were involved in demonstrations generally blamed on lack of communication between administration and the student body.

The University of Victoria, which had only 1,415 students five years ago, is expected to reach an enrolment of at least 5,000 by the early 1970s.

Formality Key To Pleasure

Tea-drinking as the Japanese do it is demonstrated for University of Victoria president Dr. Malcolm Taylor by Etsuko Nakai, newly arrived in Victoria from Japan. Trend of Centennial Square

Low Bid for Bastion $22,000 Above City's

Lowest tender submitted Thursday for rehabilitation of Victoria's historic Bastion Square was about $22,000 more than the estimate for the job prepared by City Hall.

Although no firm figure has been released by the city for the job, a tentative total was arrived at by the fact that the federal government, under urban renewal, allowed $77,000 as its share of the cost of the project.

Usually the allowance made by Ottawa in such cases is one-half the cost.

TENDERS OPENED

Two tenders were opened at a special meeting of council. First was from R. A. Hall Ltd. for $176,000, and second from Farmer Construction Ltd. for $212,849.

Original estimate for the project was about $130,000. This was later raised to about $154,000.

The fact that the lowest tender exceeded the city's estimate follows a pattern established in Centennial Square, where estimates for several of the component buildings were much lower than contractors' bids for the jobs.

City officials said while the federal government share was set at $77,000, this was subject to adjustment. Ottawa contributes to such schemes on a percentage basis.

CLOSED TO TRAFFIC

The two tenders received called for a pedestrian mall entrance to the square, closing off Bastion Street between Government and Langley to traffic.

At a recent meeting of council, committee representatives from Humber Bros. Furniture, located in the square, and the Bank of Montreal, Government and Langley, asked that meters on the block be retained, and it be kept open to traffic.

The city engineer was ordered to prepare an alternate plan for entrance to the square. It was followed by reaction from a number of Victoria merchants.

Three wrote backing the original concept. The argument that meters and car traffic in this block were necessary to business was negated, they said, because a municipal carpark is a block away.

Erratic, Dangerous

Jury Declares Dead Driver Was at Fault

By TONY DILLON-DAVIS

Barry John Morrison, 25, of Nanaimo, died because of his dangerous and erratic driving, a Victoria coroner's jury found Thursday.

Mr. Morrison died of acute confluent bronchial pneumonia and a cerebral hemorrhage in Royal Jubilee Hospital Oct. 18, nine days after he was injured in a traffic accident on the Trans-Canada Highway near Cobble Hill.

Mr. Morrison was the driver of a car which collided with one driven by Malcolm Quaite, 481 Boleskine, at about 5:15 p.m. Oct. 9.

INJURED

Also injured in the accident were Mr. Morrison's passenger, Ross Gillespie of Nanaimo. Mr. and Mrs. Quaite, and one of their three children, all of whom were in the Quaite car.

Mr. Quaite was on his way home when he heard brakes squeal, and saw ahead of him, and coming toward him, a car which was fish-tailing along the road, once going off the road.

PULLED OVER

"I braked, I didn't come to a full stop, just slowed to about 15 miles an hour," Mr. Quaite said.

REMEMBERS NOTHING

Mr. Quaite said the next thing he knew the car was coming at him sideways.

William Lees of Victoria, Melvin Wills and Norman Beirnes of Wellington and Andrew Easton of Ladysmith all testified the car Morrison was driving was being driven in an erratic manner.

Morrison's passenger, Ross Gillespie, said he remembers nothing of the afternoon of the accident.

Deer Skins Clutter City Parks

Six times this week, deer skins, entrails and bones have been dumped in city parks.

City parks authorities said Thursday it has happened twice at Thetis Lake, three times at Beaver Lake and once in Beacon Hill Park.

Victor Pratley

Officer Dies At Rink

Oak Bay detective Victor W. Pratley, 2142 Neil, collapsed and died of an apparent heart attack as he curled in the police league at Allan's Curling Club, at 9 p.m. Thursday.

He was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital by Saanich Fire Department Ambulance, and pronounced dead on arrival.

He was 49.

Det. Pratley was born in Edmonton, and served 20 years with Oak Bay police, rising from first class constable to juvenile officer in 1956, and to detective in 1958.

Before joining Oak Bay police, he served in the Canadian Army from 1939 to 1945.

He had served some time as president of the Oak Bay Police Association.

Besides curling in police leagues, Det. Pratley was an active supporter of the Farmer's Construction juvenile football team, which was originally formed as the Oak Bay Police juvenile football team.

Obscure Aspects Still Obscure

Absent Campbell Angers Meeting

By A. H. MURPHY

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell was rapped smartly across the knuckles Thursday for his failure to appear and explain some of the more obscure aspects of the hospital region plan for the capital district.

"The minister could and should have made an effort to be with us today," said Mayor R. B. Wilson, chairman of the gathering which included Victoria city council, members of the Greater Victoria Hospital Planning Council and representatives from all municipalities in the proposed regional district (School districts 61, 62 and 63) which the province wishes to put into effect.

"We are disappointed, and I think the people of the whole district will be disappointed, that Mr. Campbell is not with us at this meeting," the mayor continued.

Meanwhile, Victoria for the second time delayed passage of a bylaw which would authorize the holding of a referendum on the hospital issue at the next municipal election in December.

After deciding informally earlier to put the issue to the electorate, aldermen called a special meeting Thursday to ratify the action. When questions came up it was decided to postpone the meeting until the session with the minister.

The minister did not show up Thursday, and the bylaw was given three readings but not passed. It may be considered again today.

Dodds Carries Ball

Charts were produced showing that projected expenditure on hospitals from 1967 to 1980 would be about $28,000,000, of which the municipalities would be expected to raise $10,500,000 under the regional plan.

This would come from a two-mill tax levy on each of the municipalities in the proposed region, based half on assessment and half on population.

A plea for postponement of the whole issue because of insufficient information, was made by Coun. Frances Elford of Oak Bay.

"This is an irrevocable step—a marriage without any hope of divorce," Mrs. Elford said.

Council had never been provided with information on the scope of any of the functions proposed for the regional plan, or any of the administrative details. These things they were entitled to, she said.

Nothing should be done until March, 1966, Mrs. Elford added, and the intervening period should be spent on education.

Municipal Control

Chairman of the Royal Jubilee Hospital board, Joseph Casey, said Mrs. Elford seemed to forget that the regional board would be made up of people appointed by the municipalities. Control would lie entirely in the hands of the municipalities.

Nor should it be forgotten when delay was suggested, said Pat Blewett, assistant administrator of St. Joseph's Hospital, that there are 1,500 people right now waiting to get into hospitals.

"It all comes down to this: If we, the municipalities, guarantee the equivalent of two mills and the federal government contribution remains the same—15 per cent—will the province guarantee the balance of the cost of hospitals over a period of years?" asked Ald. Michael Griffin.

"Well, I can't speak officially, but there is no shadow of doubt that the answer to that question would be 'yes,'" Mr. Dodds replied.

Another question answered with an unofficial affirmative—a question which has been bothering Victoria particularly—was: Will the unorganized territories pay on the same basis as the municipalities in the proposed region—two mills based on population and assessment?

Fundamental necessity for what Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow called "compulsory collection" for hospital building, was answered by several members of the committee and summed up by Mayor Wilson with the statement: "The present system of providing money is just plain out of date."

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mayor Wilson said the information disseminated would receive the most careful study by Victoria aldermen.

Colwood's Man

Regional Hospital Levy Opposed

As Colwood representative on the study committee for the regional services board, he has called a meeting Nov. 30 of home-owners in Langford, Colwood, Metchosin and View Royal.

★ ★ ★

Representatives of the Victoria and District Hospitals Planning Council have been invited to explain to the taxpayers the requirements for hospitals in the area.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Nov. 30 in the auditorium of Belmont High School.

"I'm 100 per cent behind the hospitals and their needs," said Mr. Reader Thursday night, "but I can't see the taxpayers being loaded with this burden."

Mr. Reader has sent invitations to MPs George Chatterton and David Groos to attend the meeting. Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell and MLA Herbert Bruch have also been invited.

If the two MPs are unable to attend, Mr. Reader says, he expects letters from them declaring whether or not they are in favor of asking the federal government to increase federal grants to hospitals.

"They give a grant of $2,000 per bed," he said. "This figure was set in 1958. Since then, costs have tripled."

"I am taking a stand in opposition until every other angle is investigated," he continued. "I want to make sure that Premier Bennett is going to kick through with the two per cent sales tax which he added in 1954 with the promise that it would be used for hospitals."

The meeting will also give other representatives on the study committee a chance to report to home-owners in that area on progress toward formation of the regional services board, Mr. Reader said.

Saanich Vacates Huts

Old Hall a Lawbreaker

By JIM BRAHAN

The future looks dim for the old Saanich council chamber at Royal Oak—it may soon be demolished.

The municipal offices at Royal Oak with the exception of the building inspector's, closed their doors for keeps Thursday and the staff will open for business Monday at the new municipal hall at 770 Vernon Avenue.

The old buildings have been put up for sale, with the provision that the former army huts be removed within 90 days from the date of purchase.

DECADE

The huts, which housed the engineering, planning and building inspection departments, and the council chambers, served the municipality for almost a decade.

Coun. Leslie Passmore said Thursday they should never have been used in the first place.

"When we set up offices in those things we broke every building code in the municipality," he said. "I have been campaigning for years to get out of there."

ARMY HUTS

He said the two former army huts were obtained in the time of Reeve Arthur Ash.

"We even asked our solicitor if it was legal for us to use them, and he said we could break our own buildings by-law," Coun. Passmore said.

"There is no plumbing in the huts," he added. "All they are fit for is livestock, chickens or else to be demolished."

He said he had sat for a long time on Saanich council, and during the winter almost froze.

The land occupied by the old municipal offices is zoned for residential use, and all these years the municipality has been using the land on a non-conforming-use basis.

According to the Saanich building inspector, the buildings had been on the property long before there were any zoning bylaws.

"But if the land is sold and the new owner wants to set up business offices, the land will have to be rezoned," he said.

The municipal assessor said five or six people had expressed interest in the property, but tenders will be accepted until Dec. 6.

On Monday the Saanich municipal hall's new telephone number will be 386-2241.

Kyuquot Home Of Newlyweds

"The Wedding Prayer" sung by Mrs. Karen Kryzinowski, Williams Lake, and a violin solo by Mrs. M. Bergman, provided a musical background, recently, when Ruth Elaine Beaumont became the bride of James Stanley Nuttall in North Douglas Pentecostal Tabernacle.

The church was decorated with baskets of white gladiolus when Rev. C. Fawcett heard vows exchanged between the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank George Beaumont, 3958 Douglas Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Nuttall, 1336 George Street. Mr. Beaumont gave his daughter in marriage.

The only jewelry worn by the bride was a locket, a gift of the groom. Her floor-length gown was of white taffeta, styled with an overskirt of double-layer net, with front panel starred with seed pearls. The bodice featured lily point sleeves. Her veil misted from a pearl and rhinestone tiara and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis.

* * *

Gowns of blue taffeta, shading from dark to light and topped with crystal nylon overskirts, were worn by maid of honor Miss Ethel Nichols and bridesmaids, the Misses Fay Vincent, Angela Rhodes and Donalda Nelson. Accents were matching headpieces and bouquets of white gladiolus.

* * *

Best man was Allen Brasch. Ushering guests were Wayne Nuttall and David Beaumont, brothers of the principals, and John Rhodes.

The bride's mother made the three-tier wedding cake, topped with miniature figures of a bride and groom, which centred the head table at the reception in the lower auditorium of the church. Mike Kalyn proposed the toast to the bride.

* * *

For travelling, the new Mrs. Nuttall donned a navy blue and pink plaid wool suit, accented with pink accessories and corsage of pink feathered carnations.

Out-of-town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Watson and Robert and Mr. Bob Edwards, all of Vancouver.

"Sugar and spice and everything nice" with something for everybody is the theme of the annual Christmas bazaar to be held by St. Mary's Women's Guild at 2 p.m., Saturday, November 27, in the Parish Hall, Elgin Road, Oak Bay. Tea will be served at 2:30 p.m. Looking forward to the fun at the gala affair are Mrs. Hank Iverson, left; Mrs. G. E. Gould, general convener, at right, and four-year-old twins, Karen and Eric Iverson, pictured with their new "friend," Pinocchio.—(Kinsman)

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl 13 who has a seven-year-old sister. Laura is spoiled rotten. I have orders not to lay a hand on her because I am older and bigger. But she can kick me whenever she feels like it and she feels like it pretty often.

Laura has learned a stunt to get me into trouble. When she is mad at me she begins to bawl—real loud, so the people in the next block can hear. My dad runs in yelling, "What did you do to Laura?" When I say "Nothing," Laura says, "That's a lie. She hit me." Then I get punished.

I have to do eight household jobs and all Laura has to do is drag a dust rag over a couple of tables. When I complain Mom says, "She's just a little girl," but when I don't want to take her to the movies on Saturday afternoon (I go with my friends), Mom says, "Take her. She's a young lady."

It will be four years and eight months until I can get out of this house and go to college, if I last that long. Tell me what to do until then.—IN MISERY

DEAR IN: Little sisters and brothers can be a joy or a pain in the neck, depending on how their parents raise them.

Big kids should not hit little kids and little kids should not hit big ones, either. Older children should do more work but they should also have extra privileges.

It is wrong to saddle a 13-year-old girl with a seven-year-old sister on a Saturday afternoon. It is also wrong to reward a child for tattling on a brother or sister. The best system is for parents to insist that their kids work out their problems independently and refuse to act as referees.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the mother who is heartbroken because her son is marrying a woman seven years older than he is.

My son was 16 when he fell for a woman who was 26. They went together three years and I cried myself to sleep every night. He kept telling me Jeanette was a wonderful person and he loved her three children as if they were his own. Well I refused to even meet her.

My son married Jeanette when he was 19 (she was 29). Today, five years later, they are the happiest people I know. She is better to me than my own daughters. Jeanette telephones me every few days and says, "Mother, is there anything you need? What can I do for you?" My own daughters call only when they want me to sit with their kids.

So please tell that mother to cheer up. Her son's older wife may be the best one in the bunch. Mine is. — HAD TO BE SHOWN

Dear Shown: Your son and Jeanette have beaten the odds and my hat is off to them.

Dear Ann Landers: Our youngster is a victim of hemophilia. Because of his condition he is often covered with bruises and he appears to have black eyes.

Strangers come over and say, "What happened to the child? Was he in an accident?" We don't feel like discussing his condition with strangers. Furthermore we don't want the boy to feel he's abnormal. Yet we must say something. Advise us please.—W.P.

Dear W.P.: It's always difficult to cope with thoughtless people but your first concern should be for the boy. Tell the inquirers the boy has a blood condition. Chop it there. Explain to the child when people ask questions they are showing interest in him and they don't really mean to be rude.

Women's Clubs

Labor Voice Sought

The Business and Professional Women's Clubs of B.C. Thursday asked Premier Bennett to create a women's bureau within the department of labor.

Mrs. T. W. Simpson of Victoria, representing provincial president Mrs. Ivy Baston of Powell River, headed a delegation which presented a brief to the provincial cabinet.

Other delegates were Miss Elizabeth Clement, president of the Victoria club; Mrs. Margaret Campbell of North Vancouver, a past national president, and Miss Margaret Clay of Victoria, a past national president and past international vice-president.

They told the cabinet that there are 188,000 women on payrolls throughout the province and that a women's bureau would help the department and the public by interpreting present-day trends in women's employment, and encouraging competency in skills among women workers.

A women's bureau could also assist in the development and training, re-training and upgrading of occupational skills for women, the delegation claimed.

"We commend the government for its initial step in appointing Mrs. Christine Waddell as industrial officer and specialist in the female labor-management problems within the department of labor," its brief stated.

★ ★ ★

"However, we would respectfully point out that one woman, regardless of how well qualified she may be, cannot be expected to deal with the many and varied problems affecting women workers, and at the same time, help them to understand their obligations and rights as members of the labor force."

Vote in UN Regarded As Boost for Peking

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese Kyodo news service reported from Peking today that China considers its international influence heightened by the voting in the United Nations on the China issue.

While the assembly in New York again refused a seat to the Peking government, Kyodo said Communist China officials paid more attention to what they deemed an increase in the number of anti-U.S. nations.

The Peking radio made no immediate mention of the vote. In Taipei, Formosa, the Chinese Nationalist foreign office said the vote reaffirmed "the rightful position of the Republic of China in the U.N."

Needed for Heart

Blanket Attack On Cholesterol Comes Under Fire

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Canadian biophysicist says the complete condemnation of Cholesterol as harmful to human health is unfortunate.

Dr. Alan C. Burton, professor of biophysics at the University of Western Ontario, London, said in an interview Thursday during a heart symposium that medical men should make clear to the public that cholesterol is needed.

Cholesterol is contained in many fats and protein foods, and excessive quantities tend to clog the blood vessels.

'REGRETTABLE'

"I find this overemphasis of the dangers of cholesterol very regrettable," Dr. Burton said.

"It so happens that the body needs cholesterol to build up its membrane tissues. Also, blood fat is the food your and my heart muscles prefer as nourishment.

"Fully two-thirds of the nourishment of the heart and other muscles in the body is supplied from fat and not from carbohydrates."

Dr. Burton said little is known so far about the details of cholesterol action. But the arguments against cholesterol and fat were naive.

"They (the opponents) say there was a study made during the war among Norwegians," he said.

"They had very little fatty substances to eat during those years and as a result their cholesterol level in the blood was low.

"This is all very well. But of course the Norwegians had very little to eat—period. You can reduce cholesterol levels by eating less fat or simply by starving."

Dr. Burton is in Winnipeg attending the joint annual meeting of the Canadian Heart Foundation and the Canadian Cardiovascular Society.

'Habitual' Warning Issued

John Henry Murphy, 17, 313 Obed, is headed for habitual criminal proceedings if he continues with his "criminal life," Magistrate J. A. Byers said Thursday.

Murphy was sentenced in magistrate's court to eight months definite and four months indefinite after pleading guilty to uttering worthless cheques.

After reading a pre-sentence report on Murphy, the magistrate asked the Crown prosecutor: "What are the requirements for an order as a habitual criminal?"

He was told two of the requirements are leading "a criminal life" and conviction of three crimes carrying five-year sentences.

"Do you hear that?" he asked Murphy. "If you carry on like this, that's what you are heading for.

"Your criminally wayward life is quite clear.

"I'll repeat a sentence you've had before, eight months definite, four months indefinite."

★ ★ ★

Frederick Haun, who was warned the Crown would be seeking a stiffer sentence this time, was sent to jail for 14 days on his second impaired driving conviction.

"At least you saved yourself $350," commented Magistrate Byers.

STATUTE CLEAR

"I consider this a minimal offence," he said, "but the statute is quite clear; you must go to prison."

Prosecution said Haun was seen driving west on Sooke Road at about 15 miles an hour, weaving "from shoulder to shoulder."

He had a blood-alchohol content of .26 per cent, the Crown said.

Testifying in his own behalf, Haun said: "It wasn't a bad case. I remember everything, I was in good shape."

★ ★ ★

James McKay was remanded to Dec. 8 for trial on an impaired driving charge. He was released on his own recognizance on $250 bail.

★ ★ ★

University of Victoria student Ian Dudley Wickett, 19, of Parksville, was fined $300 after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Police said he was found slumped over the wheel of his car in a field at 1:30 a.m. Thursday.

The car had passed through a barrier marking the end of Wychbury, and travelled 187 feet into the field before being stopped by a ditch.

BELLIGERENT

When awakened by police, he asked where he was, police testified. When he was told, he became beligerent and kicked at the officers.

Wickett's driving licence was suspended four months.

Courtroom Parade

Ronald George Bowman, 21, of 342 Veteran, was fined $300 and had his driving licence suspended for four months after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Police testified they clocked Bowman at 55 to 60 miles an hour travelling north on Douglas from Hillside at 1:15 a.m. Thursday.

He had a blood-alcohol content of .17 per cent police said.

"No," replied Woloshyn, who had spent a week in custody awaiting sentence for theft of a car radio.

"Now you know what it's like," said the magistrate, and handed Woloshyn a six-month suspended sentence.

Woloshyn will be tried later on a charge of careless driving.

★ ★ ★

Robert Schmidt, 232 Superior, charged with careless driving, said scratches on his car were made by a boat trailer he was unused to towing.

The Crown contended they were made when Schmidt's car was in collision with a police cruiser parked on Quadra.

Constable K. D. Clark, who said he "had a premonition it was going to happen," testified he had witnessed the accident.

OWN DEFENCE

Conducting his own defence, Schmidt asked Constable Clark: "How come you saw my car green when it is blue?"

"It's a lightish blue," the policeman replied.

Constable Brian Bailey said Schmidt told him the evening of the alleged offence he had been in no accident.

"Who was with you in your car at the time of the accident?" asked prosecutor Peter Birkett.

"Just myself," Schmidt replied.

The case was adjourned to Dec 4 for judgment.

Police said Domonics was stopped on Cook at 1 a.m. Thursday.

He told police he was "just out for a walk," and later said he had no place to stay and had just arrived from Vancouver, where he was on social assistance, police said.

REMANDED

He was wearing gloves and had a bricklayer's hammer and a screwdriver beneath his topcoat and two sweaters, police testified.

He was remanded for pre-sentence report.

"Only that fact that you are employed deters me from remanding you in custody like any other thief," Magistrate Byers told Gunter Beyer, 2433 Quadra, charged with obtaining unemployment insurance by making false statements.

Court was told Beyer made a false statement about his income on five occasions.

He received $125 in benefits and had paid back $10.

He was remanded one week for sentence.

John Cooper, 2939 Scott, said he misunderstood the term "laid off" when he made a written statement in an application for unemployment insurance.

Cooper pleaded guilty to attempting to obtain benefits by making false statements.

Court was told Cooper's written statement said he had been laid off from his last job, but that it was later learned he had been "dismissed for cause."

"Perhaps I'm being too lenient," commented Magistrate Byers as he fined Cooper $20.

Guild Strikes Major Paper

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The American Newspaper Guild struck the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, largest evening daily in the United States at midnight Wednesday.

The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service had asked the Guild to postpone its strike for five hours.

Unions' Task with Members

Job Training Essential for Automation

Unions must be prepared to "go a long way" in retraining their own members for jobs taken over by automation, Jack Chapman of the International Typographical Union told the Victoria Labor Council Wednesday.

"There is only one reason for installing automatic equipment, and that is to reduce manpower," he said.

"Victoria Press will start typesetting by computer in December," he said, "but we were given four months' notice and have been retraining men in that time."

The union has jurisdiction over operating the computer, he noted.

"We are fortunate in being a local that has gained jurisdiction. Others, notably Toronto, failed."

The union does not expect an immediate reduction in manpower, he said. "But there's bound to be one eventually."

Sealed Box Contains Tally, No Ballots

OTTAWA (CP) — Another empty, sealed ballot box has been discovered—this time in Ottawa's Carleton riding—and the Liberal and New Democratic Party candidates are lodging complaints via Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay.

When returning officer Thomas Davison broke the seal to begin his official count Monday evening, he found the ballots gone and only the tally of ballots remaining.

In Quebec's Shefford riding, an empty box was found during the official count which gave Liberal candidate Louis-Paul Neveu a 45-vote win over the Progressive Conservative, Paul Trepanier.

For the official count, the tally from the empty box was used and it gave a slight lead to Mr. Francis.

Mr. Davison said he did not want to talk about the incident until he receives a written complaint from the agent of one of the candidates.

Both Mr. Francis and NDP candidate Rev. Donald Stirling said complaints will be forwarded to Mr. Castonguay under Section 58 of the Canada Elections Act.

9 IN MEMORIAM

COWARD — In loving memory of father, Robert Coward.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here

—Sadly missed, Eleanor and Ken.

COWARD — In loving memory of Robert Coward, husband and father, who passed away Nov. 19, 1964.

The pearly gates were opened,
A gentle voice said "Come."
And with farewells unspoken,
He gently entered home."

—Always remembered, loving wife Helen and son Rod.

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

Friday is certainly a night of decision for TV viewers.

Just after the 11 p.m. news a guy has to decide what intellectual, uplifting, morally stimulating late movie he's going to watch this time. It isn't easy.

Take tonight, for instance.

At 11:20 on channel 7 we've got The Brain That Wouldn't Die. ("A scientist tries to bring his dead girl friend back to life.")

But if you watch that you have to miss The Leech Woman. ("A woman discovers that she is to be the guinea pig for her husband's weird experiments.") It's on channels 6 and 8 at 11:30.

And if you skip The Brain and settle for The Leech Woman, you're liable to miss the first few scenes of 1 a.m. movie on channel 7. It's The Crawling Hand. ("An astronaut's dismembered hand comes to life.")

So what's a guy to do? With so much high-class entertainment on television, you just can't get to see it all. Pity, isn't it?

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Acute water shortages in the United States gave a special urgency for Americans to the 65-nation conference here on how to take the salt from water.

"Man's survival is threatened by water problems," Interior Secretary Stewart Udall told the opening sessions where scientists from five continents gathered in what was described as the most impressive array in history of water-engineering talent.

REDS PRESENT

The Soviet Union and four other Communist countries were represented while two Canadian papers were included in the 100 presented—all highly technical.

De-salting seawater is being done in various countries but it remains a high-cost alternative by any of the three main processes of heating, freezing or filtering through a membrane.

Emphasis being placed by the U.S. on its de-salting program, first begun in 1952, underlines one fact of special interest to Canada in view of currently-popular references to a continental water policy.

ALLOCATES FUNDS

The U.S. is spending about $2,200,000,000 on water problems this year—supply, floods, pollution and de-salting.

But it apparently intends to have a good look at salvaging and expanding its own pure-water resources before showing any public interest in additional supplies from Canada.

Suggestions to solve U.S. water problems with diversions of Canadian rivers have been popular in Congress this session without drawing any administration comment.

Testimony Sept. 8 to a Senate subcommittee by two advisers to President Johnson were cool to any grandiose diversion plans from the north at this stage.

Deputy Director Elmer Staats of the bureau of the budget said:

"We feel we ought not to go in for inter-basin transfers of water until we have taken some of the other measures which can increase our supply of water. We think there has been a tendency perhaps to jump too quickly to the conclusion that inter-basin transfers of water are going to be the solution to the problems of some of the areas of the country."

AGAINST DIVERSION

He noted proposals to divert Quebec-Ontario rivers into the Great Lakes.

Donald F. Hornig, director of the president's office of science and technology, said long-range water transfers should be delayed because "we ought to look at some of the other things we can do more effectively and cheaply."

The U.S. state department is also well aware of pessimistic reaction from Canadian authorities about leaping into big water-exporting schemes. Canada will not even consider the possibility of negotiations until it has completed a more thorough study of water resources under federal jurisdiction, it has been stated.

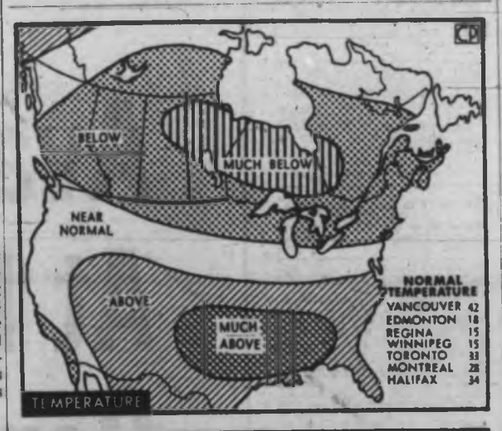

JOIN PROGRAM

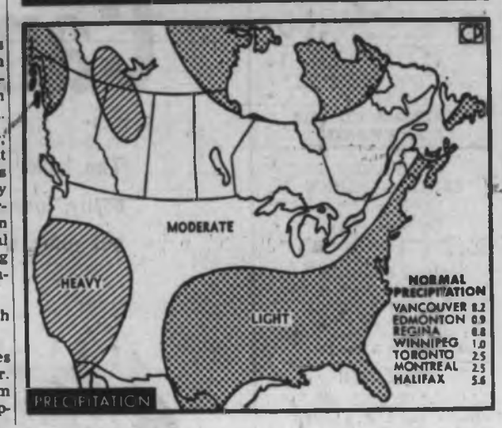

Those within the provinces are another matter, although Ontario and the federal government have joined in a Northern Ontario program of evaluation.

As matters stand, however, the U.S. government at present seems to subscribe to the views expressed at Montreal Oct. 4 by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission and a strong opponent of exporting any Canadian water to the U.S.

Said McNaughton in a speech to the Canadian Club:

"The fact is that the U.S. does not need clean Canadian water. All that is necessary is for them to process their abundant supplies of dirty water."

Men Freed of Murder Charge

Venezuelan Wives Ask Equal Shooting Rights

They no longer would be charged with homicide, like 280 men whose cases are pending. Conviction might mean only six months in jail instead of the 30 years that is the maximum under present law.

"If they can shoot us in an act of adultery and go almost unpunished by law, why can't we do the same?" a woman lawyer, Rosa Brunstein, indignantly asked the lawmakers.

NOT BE GUILTY

The bill still is subject to approval by the Chamber of Deputies. Perhaps the chamber will pass it, but the pressure of women's groups suggests it may be pigeonholed.

As drawn up in the senate, the bill says:

"He will not be guilty of homicide or injury, who, finding his wife in the actual act of adultery, kills or injures her or her accomplice or both. Sentence in this case would be no more than three years and not less than six months."

The same applies to a brother or other male relative who, in his own home, finds a woman in sexual intercourse with a man.

"This amounts to legalizing the death penalty in Venezuela," was the comment of another woman lawyer, Mercedes Omana.

FEMALE MASSES

A prominent woman politician vowed to mobilize her party's "female masses in defence of the rights of women which this government has taken away."

A woman deputy of the Democratic Popular Front, Petra de Aranguren, said, "this law is a violation of our rights."

Lawyer Brunstein said the easiest solution is divorce. She said divorces would even reduce the conceivable number of murders should women be given the right to avenge the family honor with a .45.

"The law always condemns women, but all men are adulterers," she said.

Miss Haydee Rangel, a law student, said: "What happens is that in the case of women adultery has more serious repercussions because of the possibility of pregnancy."

And that is the whole point, according to Senator Mejias Salvatierra of the government Democratic Action Party.

The senator argued that in the case of adultery by a woman her husband's paternity is always in jeopardy.

"Besides," he said, "one must always remember that man is the head of the family and when he commits adultery he usually does it outside the house and always in circumstances which are not offensive to conjugal and social relationship whereas when a woman commits adultery she jeopardizes paternity and relaxes moral authority."

Trombone, Typewriter

Globe-Trotting Newsman Covers Eastern Troubles

NEW YORK (CP)—A 34-year-old Canadian who doubles on the trombone and typewriter is covering the fighting in Pakistan for The Associated Press.

Chain-smoking Dave Lancashire, a first-rate photographer as well as reporter, was called from his base in Beirut, Lebanon, to join the AP team covering the undeclared Kashmir war between India and Pakistan.

TYPICAL

The assignment is fairly typical for the Toronto-born Lancashire. Since joining AP in Tokyo in 1957 he has managed to get a first-hand look at most of the trouble spots of the Middle East and Asia.

A one-time professional trombone player who still likes to sit in on the occasional jam session, Lancashire has been stationed at the Beirut bureau since August, 1960.

ROUTINE

He lives with wife Adrienne (former secretary to the Dutch ambassador in Lebanon) and their two sons in an apartment overlooking the Mediterranean.

When word came that he was to leave for Pakistan, he packed his suitcase, slung a couple of cameras over his shoulder, grabbed his portable typewriter and caught the first flight out.

It's the same routine he has followed on such previous short-notice assignments as Cyprus, the Chinese - Indian border clashes and various disturbances in the Middle East.

MAKES OWN BREAKS

The tall, slender Lancashire, likable and a little shy, doesn't fit the stereotype of a war correspondent in that he rarely drinks and then only wine. But his method of operation is in the best tradition of his trade.

Says a colleague: "He makes his own breaks by moving into a riot or following the tanks right into battle to get the best possible account of the action."

BARRED

He succeeded so well in getting just such an account of bloody rioting in Tehran that the Iranian government decided to bar him from the country.

Lancashire's knack of being where the news is is one reason why he is working with AP today.

After graduating from the University of Toronto and playing with bands in Canada and Europe, he worked for the Quebec Chronicle - Telegraph, the old Montreal Herald and Toronto Globe and Mail.

Walking down the street in Toronto one day, he got the idea of applying for a visa to visit China. To his surprise it came through. He promptly got in touch with AP headquarters in New York.

With American correspondents barred from China on Washington's orders, Lancashire was soon under contract with AP to do a series of articles. That was in 1956.

He became an AP staffer next year, spent three months in Indonesia in 1958 and later that year was posted to Bangkok, Thailand, from where he covered the Laotian and Vietnamese scene.

Hydrangeas Tricky

By M. V. CHESNUT

Quite a few letters come to my desk every summer from readers complaining of hydrangea plants that won't bloom. According to these correspondents, the shrubs are vigorous and in excellent health, making normal growth and pushing up leafy shoots ad nauseum, but with nary a sign of a blossom.

It is significant, I think, that most of these letters come from inland points. The hydrangea is an unpredictable critter and in some spots, usually locations close to the sea, they will bloom their heads off, while in another site, perhaps less than half a mile away, they go on a sit-down strike and refuse to dole out as much as a single flower.

* * *

This is due to frost. In early winter the hydrangea drops its leaves but the plump buds at or near the tips of the branches contain all of next year's flowers. These buds are vulnerable to frost — just a wee touch of below-freezing air and bang goes next year's display. In inland locations, and even in low-lying frost pockets close to the sea, some protection is required for these tender buds if hydrangea blooms are to be seen and enjoyed next summer.

The protection needn't be elaborate. Often a simple squirt of Wilt-Pruf liquid plastic spray is sufficient. Another simple method is to gather the branches loosely together, tying them with something soft that won't chafe the bark—an old nylon stocking is ideal—then covering the whole plant with a plastic garment bag, tearing a few holes in top and bottom for ventilation. A friend of mine who lives in a notorious frost pocket never had a single bloom on his hydrangeas until he started this garment bag stunt.

* * *

Hydrangeas are not the only plants on the borderline of hardiness. In the rock garden, for instance, we grow many plants which will stand up well for four years out of five, but which will succumb in a winter of abnormal weather. With these alpine subjects, though, the casualties are more often caused by excessive wetness rather than frost. Natives of the high places of the world, they are accustomed to a dry cold and will rot their stems under soggy conditions.

The woolly-leafed and fuzzy-leafed plants are the ones to be protected, as the texture of their foliage catches and holds enough moisture to cause decay. Whenever possible, these kinds should be grown on a steep slope in the rock garden to give good surface drainage. It helps, too, to mound up a handful of small gravel or stone chips around each plant to help keep the stems and growing points dry.

Some of the more difficult alpine plants and may need a glass or plastic umbrella over their heads in addition to the stone chips. A square of ordinary window glass will serve as well as anything, and this can be held to supporting stakes with spring-type clothes pegs. Only overhead protection is required and the sides must be left open for free air circulation, otherwise the plants will come down with frightful cases of mildew.

* * *

We don't often think of delphiniums as borderline plants, but only too often our finest specimens fail to answer roll call in the spring. Cause of death in this case is neither frost nor damp, but slugs, which are inordinately fond of the succulent growth buds in the tops of the roots.

A shallow mound of coarse cinders over the crowns will provide good protection, for the soft underbelly of the slug is easily damaged on such scratchy material. A few slug pellets near each delphinium, sheltered from the rain with a grapefruit skin, will provide a fatal counter-attraction.

ART BUCHWALD Gets the Business

'I Haven't Thing to Wear'

WASHINGTON—As soon as my wife heard that we had been invited to a party for Princess Margaret in Washington, she came up with what now has been considered one of the most original statements she has ever made. She said, "I don't have anything to wear."

I pointed out that there were at least 14 dresses in her closet, any one of which would have made Princess Margaret green with envy.

But she was determined to stick by her original statement, and the next thing I knew she was preparing a trip to New York to select a gown for the dance.

* * *

Why New York? Because it is no secret that, if you bought a gown in Washington from one of the better stores, three of them were bound to show up at the same party.

As soon as my wife arrived in New York, she contacted an intimate friend who knew every dress in New York and whom it had been sold to and for what occasion.

After two days of shopping, she came up with a long pink evening gown with lots of beads and jazz which only cost $400.

But there were shoes that went with it for $40, and gloves, and etc. And before I knew it, I was down for $600, discounting the trip to New York.

Not to be outdone, I went out and bought a new black bow tie for $2.50.

* * *

Two days before the dance my wife announced, "Merney McNerney has bought the same dress for the same dance."

"Does Princess Margaret know this?" I asked.

"I'm going to have to find something new."

"But you already put $600 into that dress. Why doesn't Merney McNerney find a new dress?"

"Because she says she found it first."

"Let's show her up and not go to the dance," I suggested.

"Oh, no, she's not going to get off that easily. I've called Hannah Troy and told her to send another dress to me."

"Another dress?" I cried. "How can we afford another dress when we still haven't figured out how we're going to pay for the first one?"

* * *

"Merney McNerney thinks I'm going to wear the pink dress and I'm going to make her think so. But she won't wear hers and then she'll be sick when she realizes I hadn't worn mine either."

"Why don't you let on you're going to wear it and then Merney McNerney won't wear hers, and you'll really have outsmarted her."

"Because to tell you the truth, I don't like it anymore now that Merney McNerney has one just like it."

"Which one do you like better?"

"Either one," I said.

* * *

"Do you know something?" she said. "Suppose Merney McNerney saw me in this dress. She'd know I went out and bought it because I knew she had the pink dress."

"It would make her evening," I said.

"But if I wore the pink dress and she wore the pink dress, it would be her problem, not mine."

"Lord Snowdon would certainly know you bought yours first," I said.

"I think I'll wear the pink one."

"And what about the other one?"

"I might as well keep it. You never can tell when Princess Margaret is coming back."

Old Words Stick

SYDNEY HARRIS

How much precision should we demand in writing and speaking? When does precision turn into mere pedantry? These are difficult questions to answer—for if we are sloppy, the language degenerates, and if we are too rigid, the language stultifies.

Several readers objected to my phrase "steam shovel" in a recent column on urban development. They pointed out that steam shovels have not been used in road work for a long time, and that the machines I saw were not operated by steam.

* * *

True enough, and if I had known what those machines were called, I would have called them by their right name. But some words become fixed in the language, and it is hard to dislodge them.

For example, we speak of turning a "manuscript" over to the printer. A "manuscript" is, literally, something written by hand; but most so-called manuscripts today are "typescripts." Few writers send hand-written material directly to the printer; yet the word "typescript" has not won its way into our vocabulary, even though it is more accurate.

We still call a non-sleeping-car on a train a "coach," because our chief conveyances, before the introduction of the locomotive, were coaches. Likewise, a certain kind of car is a "station wagon," even though it is not a wagon and rarely goes to the station.

* * *

What we call a "cab" or "taxicab" today comes from the old cumbersome phrase "taximeter cabriolet." A cabriolet was first a light two-wheel hooded one-horse chaise; then, in the early days of motor cars, an auto with fixed sides and a folding top. (The word "hack," still applied to many cab drivers to their cars, is even older, going back to the "hackney carriages" of England.)

* * *

One of the most popular, and ingrained, misuses is the current word (no pun intended) "battery" for a single cell. Almost every dictionary defines a "battery" as a set of two or more cells connected electrically—yet even the manufacturers refer to a single cell as a "battery."

(Incidentally, the very word "manufacture" is as much a misnomer today as is "manuscript." To "manufacture" meant originally to "make by hand," but almost nothing that is now manufactured is made by hand.)

We still call hotel porters "bellboys," even though they are no longer boys, and deeply resent the deprecatory term, as well they may.

A "steeplechase" is now simply an obstacle course for racehorses; in the 18th century, it began as a sport called "hunting the steeple," in which a group of riders would pick out some distant church steeple as a goal, and race toward it. The object has changed, but the name has stuck—like "steam shovel."

Rolling Stones Signed for Films

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—The Rolling Stones have signed to make five movies in England, the first starts in January. No one knows whether they can act or not, and someone remarked that "until we find out, they will not be doing Othello." That's a relief!

Mid-66 Start Seen

Color TV's Way Clear

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP)—The way has been opened for speedy processing of applications by television stations to start broadcasting in color by mid-1966.

But the Board of Broadcast Governors, announcing the road-clearing Thursday, added a big proviso:

Conversion to color should not be done at the expense of extending signals to unserved areas or of providing second service to areas where only one channel is seen.

AVOID DELAY

The BBG announced it will waive the usual public hearing for color TV applications where neither of these conditions is involved. Such applications would simply be passed to the BBG from the transport department after a technical check, be given a BBG recommendation without a public hearing and be sent back.

This would avoid delaying all applications until the next public hearing of the board, set for Feb. 1.

AFTER HOURS

Waiting until then wouldn't give interested stations much time to get set up for the July 1 starting date for experimental colorcasting.

The formal start for color TV in Canada is Jan. 1, 1967. But the government has announced that a test period will start July 1 with stations allowed experimental colorcasts overnight after regular broadcasting hours.

But the BBG said it would consider public hearings for applications where there are considerations about second service for extension of service.

The view is that stations wishing to add to their service by going into color "should be permitted to make the expenditures they consider appropriate for this purpose," the BBG said.

'Old Settlers' in Trap

By R. J. BOWER

R. J. Bower, publisher and editor of The Daily Colonist, was in Salisbury, Rhodesia, when the unilateral declaration of independence was issued Nov. 11. A former newspaperman in Rhodesia, and familiar with many of the men who figure largely in recent events there, he gives his views of the real situation in the embattled African country.

SALISBURY — Rhodesia today is not only a police state but a vast prison camp within whose confines are trapped, whether they like it or not, some 220,000 whites and nearly 4,000,000 Africans.

The warden of this prison camp is Ian Smith, who can only be regarded as a dangerous and desperate lunatic suffering from a messianic complex to such a degree that he is ready to sacrifice both his own life and the lives and welfare of every other Rhodesian resident to attain an impossible goal.

Though his personal courage in taking this first step to destruction may be admired, his powers of reasoning must be seriously questioned. Brave men often do foolish things; some win the Victoria Cross, but others end up on the gallows.

Fighter Pilot

Ian Smith, legally elected in the last election held in the once self-governing colony of Rhodesia, is one of those men who narrowly missed out on the former but might easily qualify for the latter.

During the war, he served with distinction as a fighter pilot in the RAF. But so did hundreds of other white Rhodesians. In all, 9,000 white Rhodesians served in armed services of the British Commonwealth—no mean record when it is remembered that they were all volunteers — drawn from a total white population of fewer than 70,000 people.

The difference between Ian Smith and the rest of the veterans who survived the war is that Smith has never allowed himself to forget that he once served, and emotionally this has played a large part in his life.

He never misses the opportunity to remind people that he is an ex-fighter pilot.

He never refuses the chance to talk about his personal war experiences and he never fails to recall Rhodesia's remarkable war effort. Significantly, even his declaration of independence was made on Nov. 11—Armistice Day.

White Support

That Smith has the majority of whites in Rhodesia behind him at the moment is undeniable. But who are the majority? Of the 220,000-odd white people now resident in Rhodesia less than one-third —77,453—were born in Rhodesia. Of the remaining two-thirds, 58,000 were born in South Africa and 57,714 in Britain. Another 11,621 came from other European countries, 1,958 from Ireland and nearly 2,000 from the U.S.A.

This could well mean that Smith—himself a native-born Rhodesian—receives his majority support from whites who poured into Rhodesia after the war from South Africa, Europe and other British colonies which were granted independent rule.

It is from this group of com-

Rhodesia Belt Tightened

SALISBURY (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith announced Thursday he has set up an organization to counter economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

Business, industrial, agricultural and mining leaders have joined government officials in an attempt to limit the effect of economic measures against Rhodesia by Britain and other countries.

* * *

Isolated stoning incidents were again reported in Salisbury and in the central and southern parts of the country. Industrial unrest continued in the southern city of Bulawayo, where 350 Negroes were fired from jobs in a textile factory for striking in protest against independence.

* * *

More than 2,000 Negro railway workers walked out at Bulawayo in an unofficial strike and general railway departments were forced to close. The workers faced dismissal.

The Reserve Bank of Rhodesia announced that normal banking transactions will be resumed immediately with South Africa and Malawi. This followed a total ban on all other foreign banking transactions.

Stubborn Governor Knighted

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Wilson has condemned rebel Premier Ian Smith's move to replace the loyal British governor in Rhodesia as "an act of treason."

Wilson told the House of Commons Thursday Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs, 63, "holds office at Her Majesty's pleasure and can be removed only on her instructions."

Later, the Queen underlined her support for Gibbs by awarding him her personal order of knighthood. Gibbs was named a Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order.

Wilson said the Smith regime had committed "contemptible acts" against Gibbs, his wife, and other loyal employees on his staff.

Mrs. Hague, shaken Coochie

Journey Could Drive Coochie to Hootch

By BARRY JOHNSON

Coochie the cat, resident of Crofton, may very well spend the rest of his lives a total nervous and psychological basket case.

His owners, Mr. and Mrs. John Hague, also of Crofton, drove to Victoria Thursday in their light truck.

They were driving around Cadboro Bay after calling on friends here when Mr. Hague noticed the motor wasn't working as it should and stopped to adjust the idling speed.

When he opened the hood, there was Coochie—in a bad way.

As soon as he saw Mr. Hague, Coochie took off at high speed, down through the engine compartment and away up the road.

* * *

He had ridden in there, sitting on the inside of the right fender in front of the battery and beside the hot, roaring engine, only a foot from the fan, all the way from Crofton.

It must have been a hairy trip.

Three hours later, Coochie was still in quite a state.

He was seized by high-frequency trembles and last night showed no signs of slowing down.

* * *

He was dull and listless, and just sat cowering in the cab in the foetal position, allowing Mary Hague to do with him what she would.

He looked as though he had the nine-day, bristle-covered heebie-jeebies.

If anyone had mentioned travel to him he would have thrown up.

Toe-to-Toe Jungle Fighting

Americans Slug It Out

PLEIKU, South Viet Nam (AP) — Helicopter-borne U.S. troops remained toe to toe in battle with tough North Vietnamese troops early today in the sixth day of bitter fighting near the Cambodian border.

The North Vietnamese, despite intense U.S. aerial pounding earlier, were still slugging it out with the Americans.

Mortar and small-arms fire slapped into the three main American positions Thursday night and early this morning.

Bright flares lit the Ia Drang Valley throughout the night. Bone-weary U.S. infantrymen, crouched in deep foxholes, fought off four attacks. The North Vietnamese attacked in platoon to company strength.

U.S. casualties were officially described as "very light" in this latest action. This assessment by a U.S. Army spokesman was in contrast to official reports of moderate to heavy casualties reported during the last five days.

There was no estimate of Vietnamese dead in this latest action.

The battle scene is 210 miles north of Saigon, in light jungle country six miles east of the Cambodian border.

At Pleiku airport, the U.S. Army was trying to identify dozens of dead Americans brought in Thursday. The North Vietnamese had removed all identification from the Americans slain in battle.

Date Fixed For Freedom

LONDON (Reuters) — British Guiana will become the independent nation of Guyana next May. Delegates to the British Guiana independence conference here said early today Britain's agreement to the independence date was given by Colonial Secretary Anthony Greenwood.

B.C. Labor Department

Automation Study Weighed

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson's department is considering formation of industrial inquiry commission to investigate the effects of automation in British Columbia, it was learned from a reliable source Thursday.

Mr. Peterson could not be reached for confirmation.

A usually reliable source said Thursday night that at least one union leader in Vancouver had indicated that the 48-hour general strike Nov. 25 and 26 could be averted if such a commission were established.

The informant said the commission's findings would have to be of a binding nature if it were to be supported by the unions.

NO BREAKTHROUGH

The labor minister said earlier in the evening, that no breakthrough was made in mediation of the oil strike during the day and that B.C.'s chief conciliation officer, Reginald Clements, would resume talks today with management and labor.

"The meetings are continuing and will continue tomorrow . . . in mediation you go from one to the other, so how many meetings there will be tomorrow I couldn't say."

'CHARGE STANDS'

He said his charge in Vancouver Wednesday that the New Democratic Party was behind the two-day general strike "still stands," and that the walkout was "initiated with the primary purpose of embarrassing the government."

But B.C. Opposition Leader Robert Strachan retorted Thursday that Mr. Peterson "was lying and knew he was lying."

'NO INFLUENCE'

The provincial NDP leader, reached at his home near Nanaimo, said: "At no time have we of the New Democratic Party interfered in trade union affairs or attempted in any way, shape or form to influence decisions of trade union leaders."

He said "the only political party that has deliberately set out to interfere in trade union affairs is the Social Credit party, and that is the cause of the present trouble in British Columbia.

FRIEND

"And I might add, the big oil companies know that they have a friend in the government that is on their side and they are taking full advantage of it."

Mr. Strachan said the "friend" of the oil companies is "the premier, the minister of labor and the whole government of B.C."

Peterson Tunes Ear To Hot-Line Shows

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said Thursday his department has monitored all phone-in radio shows in Victoria and Greater Vancouver to gauge public reaction to a planned 48-hour general work stoppage.

He said the conclusion reached by his department was that there is general opposition to the plan.

Mr. Peterson said even some labor leaders phoning in to the shows were against the plan, and he hoped the people instigating the walkout were aware of the opposition.

"I hope calmer minds will prevail and the few people instigating it will see the folly of their ways," he said.

Penalties Possible

Unions Aware Strike Cost May Run High

VANCOUVER (CP)—Union leaders preparing for a 48-hour general work stoppage in British Columbia are doing so in the knowledge that the cost may be high.

Labor legislation in B.C. provides stiff penalties for illegal strikes or violations of collective agreements.

Two cabinet ministers have said they consider the planned work stoppage would be illegal, a general strike, and in violation of contracts between unions and management.

UNSURE OF GROUND

Labor sources say they are not sure of their legal ground, but that won't hold them back.

Pat O'Neal, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, admitted in an interview: "We haven't had time to talk to lawyers."

The federation was going ahead with plans for the work stoppage at midnight Nov. 24, even as the chief provincial conciliation officer worked on a settlement formula for the root dispute, the strike against two petroleum companies.

ON STRIKE

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (CLC) is on strike against all B.C. plants of British American Oil Co., one plant of Imperial Oil Co., and is locked out at a Pacific Petroleums Ltd. plant.

Unless a settlement is reached beforehand, the OCAW will extend the strike to all other plants and companies at midnight Nov. 24.

The federation has asked all affiliated unions to refuse to handle petroleum products for 48 hours from the start of the province-wide oil strike, or to withdraw their services for a similar period if they do not handle such products.

SEPARATE MEETINGS

So far, the conciliator has held exploratory meetings with labor spokesmen and oil company officials separately, attempting to define their positions.

The OCAW has scaled its wage demand down to a 50-cent increase on the basic wage of $2.75 an hour. But labor spokesmen say the whole union

Colonist 500 Fund

Purse Starts Filling For Needy Families

Generous citizens and Victoria businesses have already started filling the purse of the Colonist 500 Fund.

The fund is now in its ninth year of providing cash to brighten Christmas for the destitute in Greater Victoria.

The fund is divided into 500 equal gifts.

Last year each of the 500 received a cheque for $24.75 just a few days before Christmas, when they needed it or wanted it the most. It was theirs to spend as they would.

A few donations came in to the Colonist after the cheques were sent out last year, and $178.54 has been carried over to this year.

You can mail or bring your donation to The Colonist, 2631 Douglas.

Strangers in Death Plane

VANCOUVER (CP) — The presence of two "mystery men" who walked unannounced through a parked DC-6B aircraft just two hours before it exploded in mid-air last July 8 was raised at an inquest here Thursday.

The hearing was resumed after a four-month delay during which RCMP conducted an investigation.

* * *

The Canadian Pacific Airlines plane crashed over the Cariboo district, killing all 52 persons aboard. Officials have said an explosion in the tail section ripped the plane apart in mid-air.

After several CPA hangar employees testified the plane was in normal running order prior to its flight, upholsterer mechanic Tom Kelly told of seeing two strange men at the hangar two hours before the plane was to take off.

"I saw an RCMP officer with two strange men in the plane," he said. "They were in the galley area of the plane at the time.

"I asked the constable if I could do anything for him and he said he was just showing his friends around."

* * *

Questioned on the matter, Kelly said he knew the RCMP officer by sight but did not recognize his friends. He agreed he should have reported the matter to his superiors.

"There is a list now at the ramp officer of all people who are supposed to be aboard the plane," he added.

George Murray, QC, representing the attorney-general's department, said his department has identified the RCMP constable and can introduce him if necessary.

Several other CPA employees also reported seeing the constable and two strangers.

"The front part of the plane seemed to continue to fly while the tail section seemed to hesitate and then fall away from the front part of the plane.

* * *

"The front . . . continued to fly for about 30 seconds before it went into a spin. The plane's engines seemed to sound normal before the spin but they developed a faster whine as the front part spiralled.

"Then it disappeared in the trees and there was a terrific blast as it hit the ground."

Reed, Coffey Picked by All Grid Voters

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fullback George Reed, who rushed for more than one mile, and end Tommy-Joe Coffey, who caught a record-equalling 81 passes, were the only unanimous choices for positions on the 1965 Western Football Conference all-star team announced today.

Coffey, whose catches for last place Edmonton Eskimos matched a record he set last year, was one of five players who broke through a three-club domination of the 25-man team selected by the football reporters of Canada. The extra player resulted from a tie for an offensive half spot.

Calgary Stampeders, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders—who finished one-two-three respectively in the standings—took 20 places.

The Stampeders and the Bombers each had seven players honored; Saskatchewan six, including Reed; Edmonton three and British Columbia Lions, defending champions who plunged to fourth place this season, two.

The makeup: Offence—Five Riders; four Bombers; two Stamps; two Eskimos. Defence—Five Stampeders; three Blue Bombers; two Lions; one Roughrider, one Eskimo.

Wayne Harris of Calgary received unanimous support on defence from the 24 voting members but two placed him at corner linebacker. The others put him at interior linebacker.

Reed, 24, a graduate of Washington State College, was named Canada's Outstanding Player for grinding out 1,768 yards and establishing a one-game conference rushing record—268 yards—in his third WFC season.

He also was chosen the WFC's Most Valuable Player before making his first all-star team.

Reed is only the second player in Canadian Football League history to exceed one mile rushing in a single season. Fullback Earl Lunsford of Calgary drove for 1,794 yards in 1961.

His partners in the offensive backfield are Lovell Coleman of Calgary, halfback Dave Raimey of Winnipeg, halfback Jim Thomas of Edmonton, flanker Hugh Campbell of Saskatchewan and quarterback Kenny Ploen of Winnipeg.

Fullback Coleman, Canada's Outstanding Player in 1964, finished second to Reed in rushing with 1,509 yards. He was the leader in 1963 and 1964.

Coffey, Benecick, Rigney and Campbell were members of the 1964 all-star offence

Campbell caught 73 passes for a WFC-record 1,329 yards to finish a notch ahead of Harrison in the receiving department. Herman caught 53 passes for 828 yards.

Ploen had the second-best pass completion average among quarterbacks—58.2 per cent with 124 successes on 213 attempts.

A measure of B.C.'s decline was that only two Lions made the team. In 1964 they placed nine on the squad. Only one Lion was considered for offence—tackle Ken Sugarman—and he got just one vote.

Gray, Canada's outstanding lineman in 1960, made his seventh all-star unit. Teammate Rigney, the WFC's Most Valuable Lineman in 1960 and 1961 and Canada's best in 1961, was on his sixth.

Wakeham's 66 Good for Lead

CARACAS (AP)—Bill Wakeham of Calgary and Victoria, who turned pro only 15 months ago, fired a four-under-par 66 Thursday and took the first-round lead in the Caracas Open golf tournament in this Venezuelan capital.

Alvie Thompson, who moved to Toronto from Vancouver some five years ago, was second, one stroke back.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg also made the top 10 with a par 70.

Spain's Roman Sota, the French Open champion, was third with a 68, one shot better than countrymen Angel Miguel and Americans Wes Ellis and Jack Rule.

Tied at 70 with Homenuik were Homero Blancas, recent winner of the Mexico Open, and Bob McCallister of the United States.

Keenan Returns To Leafs

Larry

Larry Keenan, who scored 35 goals and assisted on 20 others last season, arrived back in Victoria late Wednesday night to rejoin the Maple Leafs but it will be at least three or four weeks before he takes his place in the lineup.

The 25-year-old centreman had a cartilage removed from a knee just after Toronto Maple Leafs opened their training camp in Peterborough in September and is still on the limp.

He had been scheduled to work out in Toronto as soon as he was able to get on skates but lack of readily-available ice stymied that. He skated twice yesterday at Memorial Arena but is not expected to be ready to play until mid-December.

Whether Ed Litzenberger will remain with the Leafs after Keenan is ready to play remains to be seen but the lanky veteran was sent here from Rochester as a replacement when it was discovered Keenan would be unavailable for the first two months of the season.

Tonight the Leafs go to Vancouver to try and head off a new threat to the security of themselves and Portland Buckaroos.

They meet the Canucks for the third time this season, host them tomorrow and could find things a bit different than when they started the season wih 4-2 and 7-2 victories over Bert Olmstead's skaters.

Kick Costs C-Note

Defenceman Doug Messier of the Portland Buckaroos has been fined $100 and won't be among the skaters when the Buckaroos play their next game in Victoria on Jan. 11, it was announced yesterday by president Al Leader of the Western Hockey League.

Messier received a delayed match penalty here on Nov. 13, for kicking John Sleaver in the third period of a game won by the Maple Leafs, 5-2.

LOS ANGELES—Los Angeles Blades managed to beat the tough Portland defence for five goals Thursday night but could not stop the Buckaroos in their own zone and took a 7-5 beating in a Western Hockey League game played before only 3,262 fans.

Result moved the Buckaroos, who have played three extra games, four points ahead of Victoria Maple Leafs and left the Blades just two points ahead of the trailing Seattle Totems.

FOUR IN ROW

Four straight goals, three of them in the first 10 minutes and six seconds of the second period, after the Blades had opened the scoring, proved too much. The Blades got to 4-5 early in the third period but a breakaway effort by Tom McVie 24 seconds later put the Buckaroos in the clear.

Gerry Goyer led the winning attack with a goal and three assists. Art Jones scored once, regaining the league point lead from Bill McNeill and Howie Hughes of Vancouver, and Cliff Schmautz got his 12th goal to regain the goal-scoring lead.

Shack, Jeffrey Help Subdue Habs

Pulford Sparks Toronto Win

TORONTO 3, MONTREAL 1

MONTREAL — Bob Pulford, with help from the amazing Eddie Shack and newcomer Larry Jeffrey, led a third-period comeback Thursday night which brought Toronto Maple Leafs a 3-1 National Hockey League win over Montreal Canadiens.

Pulford, who had been playing his usual strong-checking game for two periods, assisted twice and scored once as the Leafs managed three third-period goals to erase the 1-0 advantage Canadiens had nursed since midway through the first period.

Shack, who scored twice in a Toronto victory Saturday night and was chosen the No. 1 star of the game, banged in the rebound after Pulford's shot to tie the score at 6:09.

About five minutes later, Jeffrey steered Pulford's pass past Gump Worsley, and then Pulford, out as a penalty-killer, made sure of it in the last minute by scoring into an open goal.

Canadiens had enjoyed an edge in play up until the third period in what was a tame game between two old rivals. Referee Art Skov handed out only three penalties, the first in the 18th minute of the second period. Aside from a couple of stiff checks between Shack and John Ferguson, his Montreal counterpart, there was little physical contact.

Shack, however, continued to play well. He made several good rushes and missed getting things started for Toronto earlier only because Pulford shot wide after Shack had set him up in the second period.

Ralph Backstrom started the scoring when he rapped in Dave Balon's rebound but Canadiens couldn't ever again get the best of Johnny Bower, who was particularly good in the first 20 minutes to keep the Leafs close.

Harris May Watch Stamps and Bombers

CALGARY—Each side has a few walking wounded but only pears to be a doubtful starter Calgary's Wayne Harris apfor the deciding game of the Western Football Conference final between the Stampeders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers tomorrow.

This does not count Winnipeg linebacker Ken Maglicic, who is on the 30-day injured list with a sprained ankle and missed Wednesday's game in Winnipeg.

Harris, who this week was voted the outstanding lineman in Canada, has been playing despite a painful groin-muscle injury and it appears to have worsened.

If he is unable to play, the Stampeders may move Don Stephenson to Harris' spot and reactivate defensive-end Ron Payne to take over from Stephenson at corner-linebacker.

Tackle Roger Kramer has a sore knee, halfback Ted Woods a sore shoulder, fullback Lovell Coleman a sore ankle and guard Hal Krebs has a disc problem but all are expected in the Calgary lineup.

For Winnipeg, defensive-end Mario Mariani has a hip hurt and tackle Cornel Piper a pulled muscle but neither injury is considered serious. Quarterback Kenny Ploen, who had the same knee banged in both the first games, will start.

Overtime Plan

"We have an established procedure for ties," said league commissioner Hap Shouldice Thursday.

"If the two-game series is tied on total points at the end of the game in Hamilton there will be a 10-minute rest and then a 20 - minute overtime game."

There would be a kickoff to start each 10-minute half in overtime.

"Then if the teams are still tied, there will be a five-minute rest—the players will not be able to leave the field—and they will go into sudden-death overtime.

"We flip a coin to see which team has the choice of kicking or receiving or taking one end of the field and keep on playing until one team scores a point."

University Repeats Win Over United

University of Victoria made it two victories in four nights over First United by defeating the church team, 30-23, in a junior women's basketball game played last night at S. J. Willis Junior High School.

Jean Robertson led the winners last night with 10 points while Linda Edge was top scorer in the game with 11. On Monday, in the 33-19 win, Lyn Hagglund had 16 points for the students while Gail Streeton got 10 for the losers.

Norm Smith scored 12 points for Esquimalt as they trimmed St. Louis College, 40-8, in a bantam boys' game.

Big Meet Sunday

Valley Unions Back Strike

PORT ALBERNI — Union officials in the Alberni Valley have decided to give full support to a proposed general strike next week.

Representatives of 18 labor unions met Thursday night and said in a statement:

"As part of the labor movement and of the B.C Federation of Labor, it is our intention to support the proposed 48-hour general strike."

BIG MEETING

They said, however, they hoped the strike would not be necessary.

The labor council selected a strategy committee composed of senior officers of the larger unions in the district.

A giant meeting of all trade unionists in the valley will be held Sunday afternoon in Alberni Athletic Hall.

The council will ask the B.C. Fed for a guest speaker, preferably secretary - treasurer E. P. O'Neal.

NDP AGENT

Mr. Smith acted as agent for NDP candidate Tom Barnett in the last election. Mr. Behn is an officer of the labor council.

The unionists will also back Ald. Garnett Reynolds if he decides to run again. He will get support for his "outstanding work on parks and recreation."

The council did not support any mayoralty candidate, and offered backing for no Alberni candidates.

POLLUTION

The council will ask the B.C. Federation of Labor to prepare a brief on air pollution for presentation to the B.C. government.

The labor council said it has "vast quantities" of material on air pollution, and it will make this information available to the B.C. Federation of Labor for a brief.

To Pay for Regional Districts

Ratepayers Demand School Tax Removal

COBBLE HILL — Abolition of school taxes to pay for formation of regional districts is the demand of B.C. Ratepayers' Federation.

Federation president George Bonner of Cobble Hill, said he and two other members of the federation discussed the new regional planning areas in B.C., during a telephone meeting.

He said Thursday, "their opinion on the matter is that before an area is formed, the school taxation of that area should be abolished; such relief would help to meet the new added taxation implemented for the new district."

PHONE MEET

The other two members of the B.C. Ratepayers who took part in the telephone meeting were Secretary R. B. Morison, of Victoria, and director Dave Lavorock of Shawnigan Lake.

Mr. Bonner said the secretary will inform Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell of the opinion of the federation.

NO GUARANTEE

Mr. Bonner said "the abolition of school taxation would give the area a boost to take on new projects which it would not be able to carry out otherwise."

He pointed out the assistant deputy minister, J. D. Baird, has emphasized the government could not guarantee there would not be an increase in taxation following the formation of a regional district.

Final Count Confirms Barnett Win

Death Road Pupils Return to School

CAMPBELL RIVER—Assurance by the school board that it will press the government for a road bypassing a dangerous section of the Island Highway, resulted in the return to school of 25 students, Thursday.

Parents at Rockland Road and Willow Point kept the 25 youngsters home to publicize the need for action on the 15-mile stretch of highway south of Campbell River.

Two children have died shortly after leaving school buses on this portion of highway.

Redistribution

Squire Submits Brief

PORT ALBERNI—John Squire, MLA for Alberni, placed the only brief before the redistribution meeting held Wednesday night in Port Alberni.

Mr. Squire suggested two reductions in Comox riding: The area from the north boundary of Nanaimo to Englishman's River being added to Nanaimo riding, and to Alberni riding, from the area north of Englishman's River including Parksville, Coombs, Qualicum, and up to and including Bowser.

The suggested changes would reduce Comox to 18,886 voters, and raise Alberni to 15,764.

The changes suggested have the object of assessing common social and economic problems of those in the constituency, equality of representations, school district boundaries, employment and recreational pursuits, and ease of service by an elected member, Mr. Squire said.

Eliminates Woodbark Particles

Mac-Powell Boosts Pollution Controls

PORT ALBERNI — More installations to combat pollution of air and water have been announced by the general manager, Alberni area, of MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.

The company will proceed at once to install a woodroom clarifier at the Alberni pulp and paper division. It will cost $120,000.

EXTRA FUNDS

J. R. Forrest, in announcing the new installation, said it would clarify woodroom effluent and prevent woodbark particles from entering harbor water.

This is the latest in a series of projects being undertaken by the firm.

Previously, installation of a Doyle Scrubber had been announced, and if this proves successful, the company intends to install two additional scrubbers on the power boilers, and the experimental units will be made permanent installations.

Additional funds have also been allocated, Mr. Forrest said, to install additional electrostatic precipitators to reduce smoke-stack emission.

"All told, these projects represent considerable expenditures," said Mr. Forrest. "They are evidence of our continuing efforts to maintain good industrial housekeeping."

Mr. Forrest's report came in the wake of widespread criticism of the forest industry by Twin Cities aldermen, the labor council and citizens when a report by pollution experts in Vancouver earlier in the month implied that only $50,000 annually was allotted by seven major forestry producers for research into pollution problems.

The meeting of pollution experts came only a couple of days after the worst bout of smog the valley has ever experienced.

Although the two events were coincidental, the limited research funds, coupled with the severity of the smog, caused an uproar among local residents including complaints and letters to city council.

Royston Financial Troubles May Force Municipality Bid

By RUTH McKELLAR

COURTENAY — A battle to pull itself out of a year of financial troubles may turn Royston Improvement District into a district municipality.

Plans for incorporation grew out of an announcement a year ago that the water district was in financial difficulty.

When the water improvement district was formed, engineers predicted there would be 355 water users in two years. It has taken seven years to gain this number.

The district must have at least 10 new connections a year in order to pay its original loan for a water system.

Seeking some way to extricate themselves, trustees approached the Water Rights Branch in Victoria, and officials there suggested they see the minister of municipal affairs.

A meeting held last June adopted a tentative budget for incorporation, and voted to proceed, but asked that trustees continue with certain investigations.

At that time concern was expressed over the maintenance of Cumberland - Royston Road and Marine Drive.

Since then, the department of highways has stated by letter that it will pave Marine Drive and strengthen and resurface Cumberland Road at no cost to Royston.

If a vote is taken Dec. 11 at the same time as municipal elections, and if it passes with a 60 per cent majority, Royston's water rates will be reduced from $5 a month to $4.

Trustees are no trying to get sidewalks and sewers; the move was based solely on the fact the water improvement district could not go on with deficit budgets.

Cowichan Arena Vote Next Year

Commission Asks $10,000 For Recreation Plans

NORTH COWICHAN—Recreation commissioners will ask North Cowichan council for $10,000 next year to hire a recreation director, promote sports, and publicize the $300,000 arena at Fullers Lake, which will be the district centennial project.

Residents will vote on the arena project during the third week of next February. The arena must be completed by March, 1967.

GREAT EFFORT

"The arena should be in a more populated area. I would have been in favor if the location was Chemainus. I would hate to see the bylaw defeated after so much work and effort."

The commission again expressed the hope that other areas, Duncan and South Cowichan, would join with North Cowichan in recreation planning.

SWIMMING POOL

The commission said it favors a swimming pool. Commissioner Jack Effort said this should be a covered swimming pool, to get maximum use.

HELP GROUPS

Commissioners supported a community hall to help these groups.

But Mr. Effort, who is also a school trustee, said before these groups get a hall of their own they should make more use of school buildings.

Christmas Project

Wreaths Leave Kinettes Numb

LAKE COWICHAN — Their fingers may be numb, but Lake Cowichan Kinettes are proud of their most tiring accomplishment, the completion of 197 Christmas wreaths in one week of workbees.

Each year Kinettes make the wreaths as one of their money-raising projects. Prior to the work bees, Kinsmen assisted by gathering cedar boughs for their wives.

She pointed out the number of wreaths would probably have hit the 200 mark if the club had not run out of wire.

Gift committee chairman Mrs. Trudy Allen will be in charge of shipping the presents to the mainland.

Mrs. St. Dennis was appointed convenor of decorating the United Church Hall for the Old Age Pensioners' organization Christmas party, Dec. 13.

Line Trouble Cuts West Coast Power

UCLUELET — Island west coast communities were without power after line trouble interfered with service at 10 a.m. Thursday.

Guy Wire Went Awry

B.C. Hydro keeps the lines of communications up, and all messages are Go. This leaning pole and broken crossbar on Comox Road, Nanaimo, cut CPR telecommunications briefly. Grader backed into a guy wire and caused mishap.—(Agnes Flett)

Gyro Club Donation Aids Athletic Club

DUNCAN—Once more Duncan Gyro club is promoting and assisting athletics in the Cowichan Valley. Members decided to give Cowichan Athletic club $400.

Some years ago the same club sponsored the construction of a cinder track at Cowichan high school and recently they agreed to put up seating accommodations at the track.

Gyro Dennis Hogan said this encouragement will not only "put this area on the sports map" but also will help to create a greater interest by the public.

Cowichan Athletic club started last May and its 70 young members come from Chemainus, Crofton, Duncan and other parts of the Cowichan Valley.

Musical Show To Get Boost

DUNCAN — Duncan musical club will hold a Cabaret Di Venice, Saturday, at the Moose Home to promote interest in the club's production of Gilbert and Sullivan's The Gondoliers to be presented here early next year.

Portable Units Cost $30,000

Board Approves Two Classrooms

NANAIMO — Classroom space is so desperately needed in the Nanaimo district the school board is willing to spend $30,000 on two portable classrooms immediately.

District engineer Jim Thorpe said Thursday "the students are here now and the temporary classrooms will take care of the overload until regular classrooms can be built."

The board has a $3,300,000 referendum which will go before the people on Dec. 11, with most of the money to be spent on classrooms.

The portable classrooms will go to Fairview Elementary in Harewood and to Brechin elementary, in the northern part of the city.

If the referendum does not pass it looks as though these two schools will have permanent portable classrooms.

However if the referendum passes the portable classrooms will be on hand when overcrowding occurs.

They are equipped with oil heating, but have no washrooms, and will take care of 40 pupils each.

Outside Campbell River

Parkland Purchase Called a Mistake

CAMPBELL RIVER — "We made a mistake" said Reeve Jack Lee, head of the district municipality, referring to council's purchase of 11.6 acres of land for park use.

Now council has learned the land, bought earlier this year, is outside municipal boundaries.

Council has already paid $10,000 for the property

Said Reeve Lee: "We didn't know it was outside the municipality until we received notification from the land registry office."

He commented "I'm sure ratepayers will realize we made an honest mistake, and will vote for the referendum when it is presented to them."

Purchase of the park property was made at the same time council voted to take over the debt on a park formerly operated by Willow Point Community Club.

Two Hunters Fined In Pitlamping Case

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—Two Greater Victoria men have pleaded guilty to hunting by night. They appeared Thursday before Justice of the Peace James Roberts.

Norman King and Thomas Luscombe were fined $100 each.

Const. William Saunders said the two men were apprehended on Sooke Lake Road Wednesday, pitlamping with flashlights. The rifle was confiscated.

Duncan Benefit Show Draws Packed House

DUNCAN — Standing room only was the order as Duncan AOTS held its annual variety concert at the United Church hall Wednesday night and the audience of nearly 250 people thanked top local artists.

The program featured the AOTS Choir, accordionist Alf Carter, folk singer Murray McAlpine, tenor Peter Yelland, the Elgar Trio with Laurel Gourlay, Donalee McDonald and Carol Daniels and soprano Sylvia Furneaux.

Scientists May Have Sea Serpent's Secret

LIMA, Peru (Reuters) — American scientists have caught the larva of a 100-foot giant eel which may be the origin of the legend of the sea serpent. It was about 12 inches long. No adult specimen has ever been caught. The find was made in the Peru - Chile deeps of the Pacific.

Blanket Attack On Cholesterol Comes Under Fire

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Canadian biophysicist says the complete condemnation of Cholesterol as harmful to human health is unfortunate.

Dr. Alan C. Burton, professor of biophysics at the University of Western Ontario, London, said in an interview Thursday during a heart symposium that medical men should make clear to the public that cholesterol is needed.

Cholesterol is contained in many fats and protein foods, and excessive quantities tend to clog the blood vessels.

'REGRETTABLE'

"I find this overemphasis of the dangers of cholesterol very regrettable," Dr. Burton said.

"It so happens that the body needs cholesterol to build up its membrane tissues. Also, blood fat is the food your and my heart muscles prefer as nourishment.

"Fully two-thirds of the nourishment of the heart and other muscles in the body is supplied from fat and not from carbohydrates."

Dr. Burton said little is known so far about the details of cholesterol action. But the arguments against cholesterol and fat were naive.

"They (the opponents) say there was a study made during the war among Norwegians," he said.

"They had very little fatty substances to eat during those years and as a result their cholesterol level in the blood was low.

"This is all very well. But of course the Norwegians had very little to eat—period. You can reduce cholesterol levels by eating less fat or simply by starving."

Dr. Burton is in Winnipeg attending the joint annual meeting of the Canadian Heart Foundation and the Canadian Cardiovascular Society.

'Old Settlers' in Trap

Ruling Latecomers Have Little to Lose

By R. J. BOWER

SALISBURY — Rhodesia today is not only a police state but a vast prison camp within whose confines are trapped, whether they like it or not, some 220,000 whites and nearly 4,000,000 Africans.

The warden of this prison camp is Ian Smith, who can only be regarded as a dangerous and desperate lunatic suffering from a messianic complex to such a degree that he is ready to sacrifice both his own life and the lives and welfare of every other Rhodesian resident to attain an impossible goal.

Though his personal courage in taking this first step to destruction may be admired, his powers of reasoning must be seriously questioned. Brave men often do foolish things; some win the Victoria Cross, but others end up on the gallows.

Fighter Pilot

Ian Smith, legally elected in the last election held in the once self-governing colony of Rhodesia, is one of those men who narrowly missed out on the former but might easily qualify for the latter.

During the war, he served with distinction as a fighter pilot in the RAF. But so did hundreds of other white Rhodesians. In all, 9,000 white Rhodesians served in armed services of the British Commonwealth—no mean record when it is remembered that they were all volunteers — drawn from a total white population of fewer than 70,000 people.

The difference between Ian Smith and the rest of the veterans who survived the war is that Smith has never allowed himself to forget that he once served, and emotionally this has played a large part in his life.

He never misses the opportunity to remind people that he is an ex-fighter pilot.

He never refuses the chance to talk about his personal war experiences and he never fails to recall Rhodesia's remarkable war effort. Significantly, even his declaration of independence was made on Nov. 11—Armistice Day.

White Support

That Smith has the majority of whites in Rhodesia behind him at the moment is undeniable. But who are the majority? Of the 220,000-odd white people now resident in Rhodesia less than one-third —77,453—were born in Rhodesia. Of the remaining two-thirds, 58,000 were born in South Africa and 57,714 in Britain. Another 11,621 came from other European countries, 1,958 from Ireland and nearly 2,000 from the U.S.A.

This could well mean that Smith—himself a native-born Rhodesian—receives his majority support from whites who poured into Rhodesia after the war from South Africa, Europe and other British colonies which were granted independent rule.

It is from this group of com-

AUTOMATION STUDY CONSIDERED

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson's department is considering formation of an industrial inquiry commission to investigate the effects of automation in British Columbia, it was learned from a reliable source Thursday.

Mr. Peterson could not be reached for confirmation.

A usually reliable source said Thursday night that at least one union leader in Vancouver had indicated that the 48-hour general strike Nov. 25 and 26 could be averted if such a commission were established.

The informant said the commission's findings would have to be of a binding nature if it were to be supported by the unions.

NO BREAKTHROUGH

The labor minister said earlier in the evening, that no breakthrough was made in mediation of the oil strike during the day and that B.C.'s chief conciliation officer, Reginald Clements, would resume talks today with management and labor.

"The meetings are continuing and will continue tomorrow . . . in mediation you go from one to the other, so how many meetings there will be tomorrow I couldn't say."

'CHARGE STANDS'

He said his charge in Vancouver Wednesday that the New Democratic Party was behind the two-day general strike "still stands," and that the walkout was "initiated with the primary purpose of embarrassing the government."

But B.C. Opposition Leader Robert Strachan retorted Thursday that Mr. Peterson "was lying and knew he was lying."

'NO INFLUENCE'

The provincial NDP leader, reached at his home near Nanaimo, said: "At no time have we of the New Democratic Party interfered in trade union affairs or attempted in any way, shape or form to influence decisions of trade union leaders."

He said "the only political party that has deliberately set out to interfere in trade union affairs is the Social Credit party, and that is the cause of the present trouble in British Columbia.

FRIEND

"And I might add, the big oil companies know that they have a friend in the government that is on their side and they are taking full advantage of it."

Mr. Strachan said the "friend" of the oil companies is "the premier, the minister of labor and the whole government of B.C."

Peterson Tunes Ear To Hot-Line Shows

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said Thursday his department has monitored all phone-in radio shows in Victoria and Greater Vancouver to gauge public reaction to a planned 48-hour general work stoppage.

He said the conclusion reached by his department was that there is general opposition to the plan.

Mr. Peterson said even some labor leaders phoning in to the shows were against the plan, and he hoped the people instigating the walkout were aware of the opposition.

"I hope calmer minds will prevail and the few people instigating it will see the folly of their ways," he said.

Penalties Possible

Unions Aware Strike Cost May Run High

VANCOUVER (CP)—Union leaders preparing for a 48-hour general work stoppage in British Columbia are doing so in the knowledge that the cost may be high.

Labor legislation in B.C. provides stiff penalties for illegal strikes or violations of collective agreements.

Two cabinet ministers have said they consider the planned work stoppage would be illegal, a general strike, and in violation of contracts between unions and management.

UNSURE OF GROUND

Labor sources say they are not sure of their legal ground, but that won't hold them back.

Pat O'Neal, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, admitted in an interview: "We haven't had time to talk to lawyers."

The federation was going ahead with plans for the work stoppage at midnight Nov. 24, even as the chief provincial conciliation officer worked on a settlement formula for the root dispute, the strike against two petroleum companies.

ON STRIKE

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (CLC) is on strike against all B.C. plants of British American Oil Co., one plant of Imperial Oil Co., and is locked out at a Pacific Petroleums Ltd. plant.

Unless a settlement is reached beforehand, the OCAW will extend the strike to all other plants and companies at midnight Nov. 24.

The federation has asked all affiliated unions to refuse to handle petroleum products for 48 hours from the start of the province-wide oil strike, or to withdraw their services for a similar period if they do not handle such products.

SEPARATE MEETINGS

So far, the conciliator has held exploratory meetings with labor spokesmen and oil company officials separately, attempting to define their positions.

The OCAW has scaled its wage demand down to a 50-cent increase on the basic wage of $2.75 an hour. But labor spokesmen say the whole union

Rhodesia Belt Tightened

SALISBURY (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith announced Thursday he has set up an organization to counter economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

Business, industrial, agricultural and mining leaders have joined government officials in an attempt to limit the effect of economic measures against Rhodesia by Britain and other countries.

★ ★ ★

Isolated stoning incidents were again reported in Salisbury and in the central and southern parts of the country. Industrial unrest continued in the southern city of Bulawayo, where 350 Negroes were fired from jobs in a textile factory for striking in protest against independence.

★ ★ ★

More than 2,000 Negro railway workers walked out at Bulawayo in an unofficial strike and general railway departments were forced to close. The workers faced dismissal.

The Reserve Bank of Rhodesia announced that normal banking transactions will be resumed immediately with South Africa and Malawi. This followed a total ban on all other foreign banking transactions.

Stubborn Governor Knighted

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Wilson has condemned rebel Premier Ian Smith's move to replace the loyal British governor in Rhodesia as "an act of treason."

Wilson told the House of Commons Thursday Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs, 63, "holds office at Her Majesty's pleasure and can be removed only on her instructions."

Later, the Queen underlined her support for Gibbs by awarding him her personal order of knighthood. Gibbs was named a Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order.

By BARRY JOHNSON

Coochie the cat, resident of Crofton, may very well spend the rest of his lives a total nervous and psychological basket case.

His owners, Mr. and Mrs. John Hague, also of Crofton, drove to Victoria Thursday in their light truck.

They were driving around Cadboro Bay after calling on friends here when Mr. Hague noticed the motor wasn't working as it should and stopped to adjust the idling speed.

When he opened the hood, there was Coochie—in a bad way.

As soon as he saw Mr. Hague, Coochie took off at high speed, down through the engine compartment and away up the road.

He had ridden in there, sitting on the inside of the right fender in front of the battery and beside the hot, roaring engine, only a foot from the fan, all the way from Crofton.

It must have been a hairy trip.

Three hours later, Coochie was still in quite a state.

He was seized by high-frequency trembles and last night showed no signs of slowing down.

He was dull and listless, and just sat cowering in the cab in the foetal position, allowing Mary Hague to do with him what she would.

He looked as though he had the nine-day, bristle-covered heebie-jeebies.

If anyone had mentioned travel to him he would have thrown up.

Toe-to-Toe Jungle Fighting

Yanks, Reds Slug It Out

PLEIKU, South Viet Nam (AP) — Helicopter-borne U.S. troops remained toe to toe in battle with tough North Vietnamese troops early today in the sixth day of bitter fighting near the Cambodian border.

The North Vietnamese, despite intense U.S. aerial pounding earlier, were still slugging it out with the Americans.

Mortar and small-arms fire slapped into the three main American positions Thursday night and early this morning.

Bright flares lit the Ia Drang Valley throughout the night. Bone-weary U.S. infantrymen, crouched in deep foxholes, fought off four attacks. The North Vietnamese attacked in platoon to company strength.

U.S. casualties were officially described as "very light" in this latest action. This assessment by a U.S. Army spokesman was in contrast to official reports of moderate to heavy casualties reported during the last five days.

There was no estimate of Vietnamese dead in this latest action.

The battle scene is 210 miles north of Saigon, in light jungle country six miles east of the Cambodian border.

At Pleiku airport, the U.S. Army was trying to identify dozens of dead Americans brought in Thursday. The North Vietnamese had removed all identification from the Americans slain in battle.

Colonist 500 Fund

Purse Starts Filling For Needy Families

Generous citizens and Victoria businesses have already started filling the purse of the Colonist 500 Fund.

The fund is now in its ninth year of providing cash to brighten Christmas for the destitute in Greater Victoria.

The fund is divided into 500 equal gifts.

Last year each of the 500 received a cheque for $24.75 just a few days before Christmas, when they needed it or wanted it the most. It was theirs to spend as they would.

A few donations came in to the Colonist after the cheques were sent out last year, and $178.54 has been carried over to this year.

You can mail or bring your donation to The Colonist, 2631 Douglas.

Strangers in Death Plane

VANCOUVER (CP) — The presence of two "mystery men" who walked unannounced through a parked DC-6B aircraft just two hours before it exploded in mid-air last July 8 was raised at an inquest here Thursday.

The hearing was resumed after a four-month delay during which RCMP conducted an investigation.

The Canadian Pacific Airlines plane crashed over the Cariboo district, killing all 52 persons aboard. Officials have said an explosion in the tail section ripped the plane apart in mid-air.

After several CPA hangar employees testified the plane was in normal running order prior to its flight, upholsterer mechanic Tom Kelly told of seeing two strange men at the hangar two hours before the plane was to take off.

"I saw an RCMP officer with two strange men in the plane," he said. "They were in the galley area of the plane at the time.

"I asked the constable if I could do anything for him and he said he was just showing his friends around."

★ ★ ★

Questioned on the matter, Kelly said he knew the RCMP officer by sight but did not recognize his friends. He agreed he should have reported the matter to his superiors.

"There is a list now with the ramp officer of all people who are supposed to be aboard the plane," he added.

George Murray, QC, representing the attorney-general's department, said his department has identified the RCMP constable and can introduce him if necessary.

Several other CPA employees also reported seeing the constable and two strangers.

"The front part of the plane seemed to continue to fly while the tail section seemed to hesitate and then fall away from the front part of the plane.

"The front . . . continued to fly for about 30 seconds before it went into a spin. The plane's engines seemed to sound normal before the spin but they developed a faster whine as the front part spiralled.

"Then it disappeared in the trees and there was a terrific blast as it hit the ground."

Automation Study?

"The troubles we are now having in British Columbia are a direct result of only having a part-time minister of labor, who is unable therefore to do the labor minister's job adequately and help relieve tension between labor and management," said Mr. Strachan.

"Mr. Peterson when he made his statement (about NDP backing of the general strike) was lying and he knew he was lying, because he will recollect that when the trade union meeting was taking place to make that decision I was in Victoria talking to him and his department about a problem in my constituency."

Meanwhile, E. P. O'Neal, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said of Attorney-General Bonner's remarks Wednesday that the NDP is involved in the forthcoming general strike:

"Mr. Bonner's insults and snide remarks, in my opinion, offer very little of a constructive nature to the serious situation which is developing. I had hoped for something more useful from a senior cabinet minister.

"I have no intention of obscuring the real issue in the dispute, which is automation and the jobs of the oil workers, by trading insults with the attorney-general. I hope, however, that his obvious bias in favor of the oil corporations is not a reflection of the government's attitude," Mr. O'Neal said.

"Our federation fought desperately for time to enable all concerned to resolve the dispute and we do not appreciate Mr. Bonner's tirade at this crucial time."

Unions Aware

movement is vitally concerned with the OCAW's demands for job protection in the face of automation. Job security, not wages, they say, is the key point.

HEAVY FINES

Under the Labor Relations Act in this province, unions can be fined $125 a day for calling or authorizing a strike contrary to the provisions of the act.

Union leaders guilty of the same offence can be fined $50 a day.

Also a factor is the Trade Unions Act, known in B.C. as Bill 43 and denounced universally in the union movement.

SUPPORTING UNIONS

Unions which have declared themselves in support of the work stoppage include the 6,000-member B.C. Hydro Employees' Association, the International Woodworkers of America, the Pulp and Sulphite Workers, the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, the Civic Outside Workers Union, the Postal Employees' Association and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Overwork Blamed

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Insufficient staff on deck, overwork and bad weather were cited by crewmen Thursday as possible causes for the sinking of the new 23,500-ton Canadian laker Lawrencecliffe Hall.

An 18-year-old ordinary seaman told of what he saw moments before the Lawrencecliffe Hall collided with the British freighter Sunek near here Wednesday.

"I saw the Sunek a mile away and started to blow the horn and give signals but she wouldn't answer. Then in the fog I could see the Sunek coming straight at us. At 50 yards, she changed course, came along the starboard side and hit us amidships," Joseph Thomas, of Port Morien, N.S., said.

Road to University May Honor Gaglardi

BURNABY (CP) — Highways Minister Gaglardi, who says he has never had a road named after him, may soon have as a namesake the steep road up Burnaby Mountain to Simon Fraser University.

SFU president Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan said Thursday the name will be kept secret until the road is officially opened Dec. 2, but he heaped praise on Mr. Gaglardi for building "this magnificent road."

Old Settlers

parative newcomers or other non-Rhodesian-born whites that Smith has drawn his cabinet. It is from this group that pressures to establish white supremacy rule come.

Real Losers

And it is this group, too, which will suffer the least when Rhodesia is eventually brought to her knees through sanctions or worse. These new Rhodesians can, when bad times hit the colony, always get out and go home—to South Africa, to Britain, or to their European homelands.

But what of the real Rhodesians, those who are now but a minority in a land taken over by strangers, those who were born in the colony and have no other home to call their own? Today they have no voice. What they have gained through their own and their parents' pioneering in a rough and of-times unrewarding land, Smith has already lost for them.

Today they face a bleak future. They are the ones who must stay. They are the ones who must lose everything they have worked for. They are the ones who must suffer.

Status Change

Their only hope is that Prime Minister Harold Wilson will hit the Smith regime with every economic weapon he possesses to bring the nightmare situation to a quick end. And if this happens and Rhodesia is once again relegated to the status of a mere Crown colony under the administration of the British Colonial Office, they may yet be able to salvage something from the wreckage. Enough, say, at least to rebuild their losses or make a fresh start in a new country.

But today they must wait it out and watch with despair the destruction of the country they and their fathers created out of wilderness.

It is to be hoped that when the dust settles Britain and the world will not forget them. For they, even more than the 4,000,000 Africans who will eventually inherit the country, are the real victims of Smith's lunatic action.

Snow, Wind in East

Winter Offers Preview

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Weather hijinks Thursday brought a crippling 10 - inch snowfall to Montreal and a vicious, wind - whipped rain storm to Newfoundland's west coast.

* * *

The Prairies were cold with the temperature dropping to below zero in some places. Cloudy skies, chilling rain showers and snowflurries made things generally miserable in the Maritimes.

Individual Tolerance Key To Nicotine Poison's Effect

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Please describe how nicotine affects the body—liver, pancreas, nervous system, etc.

I have cirrhosis of the liver and have been told that I am likely to get nicotine poisoning if I don't stop smoking.—B.D.

We'll start with the nervous system, the "autonomic nervous system" over which we have no voluntary control. At first nicotine stimulates it; more nicotine can to some degree paralyze it.

This translates into such things as a rapid heart beat, feeling of faintness, jitters, spasm of blood vessels.

WIDE VARIANCE

People vary enormously in their tolerance to nicotine, and hence the point at which they suffer nicotine "poisoning." I have known more than one person, novices at smoking, to faint from the effects of a single cigarette.

Nicotine can sometimes make the capillaries clamp down so rapidly that you can see the skin lose its pinkness. (That's why tobacco is absolutely verboten for someone with Buerger's disease or other conditions which limit circulation to the extremities.)

As to the organs you mention, the liver and pancreas, I would suggest that the heart (palpitation) is more sensitive. The liver and other organs are significant in that they play a part in ridding your system of such nicotine as you take in.

MORE WORK

Cirrhosis of the liver doesn't make you, basically, any more sensitive to nicotine poisoning, but it certainly restricts your ability to withstand the nicotine. Keep on smoking, and your liver is required to do that much more work. If your circulation is impeded, your liver is under that much added handicap.

I understand why people like smoking. I smoked for a great many years until I decided, about five years ago, that I'd gain more in health than I would lose in pleasure. Don't think I don't miss the solace of tobacco, because I do, but I balanced what I was getting against what I was losing, and made my decision. You take it from there.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a recent bride. Is there any way I can be sure not to become pregnant for at least three years? I cannot ask neighbor women as we live out in the country. I want to continue to work a while longer. I am 23. —MRS. N.C.

The birth control pills are as certain a means as exists. Just about as sure results are obtained by a diaphragm, a method that has been in wide use for many years.

In either case, you don't need neighbor women; you do need your doctor. You must have a prescription for the pills, and also need the physician's advice in case (as occasionally happens) there may be some side effects, although they are rarely of any great consequence.
